THE MOTION PICTURE ASSOCIATION

THE ASSOCIATION moved forward on a number of new projects during 1957. Early in the year a consumer research project was initiated by the board. This comprehensive study of the motion picture customer was conducted during the year by the Opinion Research Corp. The findings were released early in 1958.

Once again exhibitors and distributors sat down together to develop an arbitration and conciliation machinery. A conciliation plan was adopted in June and went into effect Nov. 1. Meetings on arbitration are continuing and it is hoped will be brought to a fruitful conclusion early in the new year.

The MPAA board approved and authorized $375,000 for an 11-point business building program. Many phases of this program have already been completed. At the request of exhibitors, who offered to put up one half of the required funds, an institutional advertising campaign was developed. The proposed campaign received the approval of key exhibitor leaders and of the MPAA Board. The official slogan of the institutional campaign. "Get More Out of Life . . . Go Out to a Movie," received wide spread adoption by exhibitors and distributors throughout the country during November and December.

The industry's Production Code Appeals Board was expanded from 10 to 20 members with the addition of 10 representatives—six exhibitors and four independent producers.

During the year United Artists re-joined the association and in December Republic Pictures resigned, leaving a total of nine major producing-distributing companies members of the MPAA board.

In the Fall of 1957 the industry celebrated its Golden Jubilee—the 50th anniversary of the first motion pictures made in Hollywood. Special ceremonies were held on the West Coast to commemorate the event.

One of the highlights of the year was the decision of the industry to sponsor the Academy Awards telecast on March 26, 1958. This was the first Academy telecast without an outside commercial sponsor.

The year 1957 was a year of sober soul-searching on the part of all branches of the industry, but with one of its largest line-ups of new product, the industry was girding itself for the challenge of 1958. With a potential weekly audience of up to 100,000,000 the industry was taking definite steps to gain a larger share of this potential.

PRODUCTION CODE ADMINISTRATION

SELF-REGULATION of motion picture production evolved gradually from early beginnings in 1922 when the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America was founded. Several progressive steps to establish higher standards of production culminated in the adoption on March 31, 1930, of the Production Code, which continues as the basic document in the industry's policy of self-regulation.

This Code, a voluntary agreement entered into by the member companies, acknowledges the producers' responsibility to the public and asks in return "a sympathetic understanding of the problems inherent in motion picture production, and a spirit of cooperation that will allow the opportunity necessary to bring the motion picture to a still higher level of wholesome entertainment for all concerned."

The Code machinery of self-regulation operates at four points:

1. The original story or play may be submitted to the Production Code Administration for suggestion and criticism before the first screen adaptation is written.
2. When the script is completed, it is submitted for a check with Code requirements.
3. In the early stages of production, members of the Production Code Administration staff are often called in to discuss sequences that present problems.
4. After this careful reviewing all along the way, the finished picture is reviewed and, if it meets Code requirements, a certificate of approval is issued.

The Code machinery is available to all producers, foreign or domestic, whether or not they are members of the Association, a service increasingly utilized.

How well the Production Code Administration has performed its functions in maintaining both Code Standards and the integrity and vigor of the screen as a medium of entertainment is evidenced by the steady stream of high quality pictures that continues to flow from the studios.

ADVERTISING CODE ADMINISTRATION

AS WITH all forms of self-regulation in the motion picture industry, the efforts of the member companies of the Association, through the provisions of the Advertising Code (adopted June 10, 1930), are directed toward promoting and maintaining a high standard of advertising throughout the industry. This cooperative effort brings into conformity with the requirements of good taste all press books, newspaper advertising, trailers, outdoor displays, novelties and other forms of publicity and exploitation.

All motion picture producers, whether or not they are members of the Motion Picture Association, who accept the Production Code seal on their product thereby agree to conform also to the Advertising Code.

To insure uniform interpretation of the Code, all advertising material is submitted in advance to the Advertising Code Administration at the Association's office in New York or its branch in Hollywood.

TITLE REGISTRATION BUREAU

IT IS GENERALLY BELIEVED by motion picture executives and theater managers that an appropriate and intriguing title that arouses public curiosity, or a title that has achieved fame and wide popularity as a book or play, has a profound influence on the success or popularity of a motion picture. Numerous examples of distinctive and unusual titles on widely popular pictures support the theory. For this reason more and more attention is being given to titles by the producers and distributors of modern motion pictures.

The difficulty of protecting valuable property rights in motion picture titles in the absence of copyright protection on the title itself and the expense and delays of litigation, to establish usage rights brought about the gradual development of a voluntary method of title registration in a central agency by the members of the Association. The present procedure for the registration of titles was established by the Association in 1936 for its members and such non-member producing and distributing companies as desire to use the service.

In all the years the title registration service has been operating few companies once using the registration service for its titles have ever requested it be discontinued for them. Now 275 motion picture companies use the services of Title Registration Bureau, submitting for registration an average of 5,000 titles a year. Each company using the Bureau receives a daily report of all title registrations.

The registration of motion picture titles to prevent duplication and harmful similarities serves a dual purpose: first, it enables the theater going public to readily identify the motion pictures it wants to see without confusion or misleading similarity between titles; and second, it protects the valuable titles of published books and plays acquired for motion picture production, and original titles with popular appeal, against the use of identical or unfairly similar titles by any producer or distributor that is a party to the title registration voluntary agreement. By such agreement each participating company undertakes to refrain from using such registered title until the prior registration is terminated or otherwise released for use.

Titles that are considered to be salacious, indecent, obscene or otherwise offensive are not accepted for registration. Differences of opinion on similarities and other title controversies are adjusted first by direct negotiation and discussion between the registrants involved, but may be referred to the Association for possible mediation.

If this fails to adjust the dispute it is then referred to arbitration for a final decision. In the past year 1,306 formal protests were filed with the Bureau against the registration of titles deemed to be too similar to a title already registered. All but 20 of these protests were adjusted by friendly negotiation between the companies and by mutual agreement without resorting to an arbitration of the dispute.

By agreement the producers and distributors who participate in title registration limit the number of original titles which any company may have in registration at one time, so that an unreasonable number of titles will not be reserved indefinitely but not used on a produced picture. Of course as the pictures are produced and released the titles are taken off the "priority registration" and placed on the release index or list of produced motion pictures.

Whenever movies are produced under titles based on a copyrighted work, such titles are automatically placed on a permanently protected list. In addition to these, any studio may ask permanent protection for up to 250 original titles. Beyond these, all titles registered and used for released pictures are protected for a four-year period. During the period of such protection, no other company may use the title unless it obtains clearance from the prior registrant.

Titles of pictures intended for production are granted indefinite protection if affixed to copyrighted material. Otherwise, if in an original title classification, a one-year period of protection is afforded. Each registrant is limited to one hundred original feature titles and 200 original short-subject titles at any one time. If an original title is not used within the year and the registrant cannot show evidence of intention to produce the subject within the succeeding six months, the title becomes available to any other company which has expressed interest in the identical title.

The indexes of titles of motion pictures produced and released by member companies keeps growing every year. In 1937 there were 36,000 titles of feature pictures and short subjects registered on the release index, today there are over 50,000 titles registered, and the index file used to call attention to similarities with titles previously registered, based upon the use of key words, now has over 150,000 cards in it.

For those companies who do not register titles with the Bureau, titles are considered and approved for suitability in connection with the Code of Production Standards. Last year 51 titles were thus approved and since 1937 over 5,000 such titles have been considered by the Bureau for use on pictures that have received Code approval.

MOTION PICTURE EXPORT ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA

AMERICAN motion pictures constitute one of this country's leading export commodities. They are widely exhibited in every country of the world with the exception of the Soviet Union and its satellite countries.

Monetary returns from motion pictures in foreign markets account for a substantial portion of the American film industry's total revenue. Few other American industries rely on foreign markets to such an extent.

In addition to their commercial importance, American films—more than any other medium of mass communication—are recognized as a powerful influence in fostering democratic attitudes and in conveying to peoples abroad an understanding of American life, customs and institutions. While American movies are popular primarily because of their superior entertainment values, the social and ideological by-products which they carry have had a tremendous impact on film-goers of every nation in which American films are exhibited.

The heavy reliance of the American film industry on revenues from abroad and the increasingly vital role its product is playing as ambassadors of democracy have invested the Motion Picture Export Association of America, Inc., with important responsibilities.

Constant objective of the Division's efforts is to hold down to a minimum, through negotiation, the restraints officially imposed by many foreign governments on the free distribution of American films, and to eliminate these curbs wherever possible. Typical of the barriers placed in the path of American films abroad are limitations on film imports, screen quotas, excessive import duties, dubbing taxes, and substantial levies on theaters, admissions and earnings.

Gains in the box office volume of American films and monetary returns from overseas markets paralleled the recovery of Europe and Asia from the economic and political disruptions of the post-war years.

By the end of 1951, a resurgence in the popularity of American films abroad increased aggregate business volume enough to neutralize the serious monetary losses that ensued from the spate of currency devaluations which jolted the American film companies in 1949-50. Overseas business and remittances have increased steadily since then.

Even though there has been little abatement in the obstacles that impede American film operations overseas, business volume and remittances from foreign markets showed further gains in 1956, topping even the high figures of the preceding year. Revenues from abroad last year are estimated to be close to the 1955 total.

Through MPEA efforts and negotiations, following are some of the noteworthy developments overseas in 1957:

A new agreement was negotiated in Paris by Eric A. Johnston covering film imports to France for 1957 and 1958.

A substantial portion of old blocked funds were transferred from Indonesia following extensive negotiations with officials of that government.

Substantial remittance arrangements also were made with Japan, France, Colombia and the Philippines.

The agreement with Norway was renewed for another year.

In the Fall of 1957 the film agreement with the British Government was renewed, thus continuing the excellent British relationships of the industry.

New understandings also were reached with Pakistan and Burma.

The distribution functions and responsibilities of the original MPEA which was created in 1945 to operate on an interim basis in eleven foreign countries have now been discharged. Member companies have resumed individual operation and the unified distribution set-ups under MPEA have been liquidated.

MPEA outposts abroad are located in London, Paris, Frankfurt, Stockholm, Rome, Sydney, Rio de Janeiro, Tokyo, Bombay and Djakarta.

MPEA's field representatives serve as liaison with foreign governments and film interests, and with member company distributors and report to MPEA headquarters on all matters relating to motion picture interests in their respective areas. Presence of these men in the field enables the MPEA to take prompt action on matters requiring remedial attention. Not infrequently, when adverse legislation is anticipated, speedy appeal and negotiation by MPEA have been successful in delaying and discouraging enactment.

Film Boards of Trade composed of local representatives of American motion picture distributors are maintained in 29 foreign countries. They operate under the general guidance of the Association and their activities, reported regularly and in detail, are shared with member companies.

The Advisory Unit for Foreign Films, created by Johnston in 1950 as an integral part of MPEA, continued its program of assistance to foreign film producers who seek its services.

The unit was set up for the purpose of making available to foreign producers or their representatives the information, knowledge and merchandising experience needed to help them market their product in the United States. Its basic objective is to encourage the importation of more good foreign films in this country, thereby helping to stimulate the flow of dollars to film-producing countries abroad.

The Advisory Unit is essentially consultative in character. Statitsics on the American film market compiled specially by the Unit for foreign film producers are readily available. The Unit gives information on the clearance of films through U S. customs; on standard distribution and exhibition practices; the operation of the Production Code; state and local censorship regulations, and other items—all calculated to smooth the path of the overseas producer who has a film to sell here.

EDUCATIONAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICES DEPARTMENT

THE Community Relations Department provides information and assistance to civic, cultural and educational community leaders who are interested in directing the attention of the public to worthwhile current motion pictures presented in theatres. The department also assists theatre managers to adjust their entertainment programs to the needs of the entire family and the interests of important groups in their communities. Among the activities to which the department gives its cooperation, or sponsors, are the following:

Preview Services

The department, through the cooperation of motion picture distributors, provides previewing facilities affording the following national groups opportunity for early screenings of pictures:

American Association of University Women
American Jewish Committee
American Library Association
Children's Film Library Committee
National Society Daughters of the American Revolution
National Federation of Music Clubs
Federation of Motion Picture Councils, Inc.
General Federation of Womens Clubs
National Council of Women of the U. S.
Protestant Motion Picture Council
United Church Women
National Congress of Parents and Teachers
Schools Motion Picture Committee

These groups constitute the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations.

Each of these organizations designates a national motion picture chairman who in turn appoints a preview chairman and an editorial chairman. The preview committees vary in size, having from ten to fifty reviewers.

Each national organization distributes its own preview reports directly to its members, either through mimeographed or printed bulletins or in their national house organs or magazines.

Joint Estimates of Current Entertainment Films

For the larger national distribution, concerned rather with a joint estimate of motion pictures than with the point of view of the individual organization, the preview chairmen, sitting as an editorial board, compile reviews published as the JOINT ESTIMATES OF CURRENT ENTERTAINMENT FILMS. This semi-monthly report is popularly known as the "Green Sheet." JOINT ESTIMATES OF CURRENT ENTERTAINMENT FILMS provides audience suitability classifications and three basic appraisals. Audience suitability classifications are as follows.

F—Family.
YP—Young People.
A—Adults.
MYP—Mature Young People.

The three basic appraisals are concerned with entertainment value, moral acceptability, and educational merit.

As the audience classifications are not to be interpreted as merit classifications, the reviews of the pictures undertake to express the editorial board's judgment. Motion pictures held to have outstanding merit are awarded the distinction of a star. Where the opinions of the editorial chairmen are not in agreement, the estimate of the majority is reflected in the appraisal, and the exceptions, either in audience classification or general ratings, are noted.

The Motion Picture Association prints and distributes JOINT ESTIMATES OF CURRENT ENTERTAINMENT FILMS for the national groups doing the previewing.

Subscriptions to JOINT ESTIMATES are available to individuals identified with some organized group in their community and to interested exhibitors. Requests to obtain the "Green Sheet" should be addressed to the Joint Estimates of Current Entertainment Films, 28 West 44th Street, New York 36, N. Y. Upon receipt of such request, a questionnaire will be mailed to the applicant asking what affiliations with public activities each applicant has in his or her community. Upon receipt of the questionnaire, the applicant will be placed on the mailing list to receive not only the JOINT ESTIMATES but other material related to specialized phases of motion picture art or industry applicable to the indicated interest or activity of the recipient.

Children's Film Library

In the brochure explaining the Children's Film Library, Eric Johnston placed this introduction:

"The Children's Film Library has but one aim and purpose: to keep constantly available for Saturday showings the finest possible films for the children of America.

"Ageless stories by Mark Twain, Robert Louis Stevenson, Lewis Carroll, James Fenimore Cooper and Booth Tarkington take their place in the Library beside modern tales of stirring historical happenings—life in foreign lands—diverting situations that lead to laughter.

"In undertaking this project, the motion picture industry is proud to have a part in preserving for younger audiences the photoplays which the children love and have made their own.

"If parents will encourage the screening of these pictures at their neighborhood theatres on Saturday shows, their children, I believe, will be enriched in literature, advanture, fantasy and fun. We present the CHILDREN'S FILM LIBRARY with that in mind."

In addition to the motion pictures in the Children's Film Library, those in current release are available to exhibitors for children's programs; the key to these pictures are ratings which appear in the semi-monthly JOINT ESTIMATES OF CURRENT ENTERTAINMENT FILMS. Two ratings are made: CPR (Recommended for children's programs) and CPA (Acceptable for Children's Programs).

All the films in the Children's Film Library are previewed by groups of children as well as by the National Children's Film Library Committee; this dual appraisal and selection guarantees both the moral and age classification suitability and the entertainment acceptability of these pictures for special children's programs.

Organizations participating in the National Children's Film Library are:

Protestant Motion Picture Council.
United Council of Church Women.
American Library Association.
National Congress of Parents and Teachers
National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.
Parents' Magazine.
National Federation of Music Clubs.
Schools Motion Picture Committee.
American Association of University Women
American Jewish Committee.
General Federation of Women's Clubs.
International Federation of Catholic Alumnae.
National Council of Women of the U. S.

For advice and guidance in the initiation of special children's programs or cooperation from exhibitors, address Educational and Community Services Department, MPAA, 28 W. 44th St., New York 36, N. Y.

In the transition from the use of inflammable film to non-inflammable film, a number of the pictures in the Children's Film Library were withdrawn from the Library. For information on pictures now available, inquiry should be made to the MPAA.

Motion Picture Appreciation

IT is estimated that not less than 6,000,000 students in elementary and secondary schools, colleges and universities receive more or less detailed guidance from their teachers in the appreciative study of appropriate motion picture feature and short subjects currently offered in the theaters. This technique is rapidly spreading, especially in high schools and junior high schools. These alert teachers use the motion picture theater for illustrative material just as they use the public library for collateral reading. Also, they have found it practical to mold the taste of their pupils toward the development of discriminating habits of choice in the selection of motion picture entertainment. In these activities teachers use study guides, a number of which are published during each school year, by the producer, and also by the Educational Committee on Entertainment Films of the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations.

The study guides are available free on request to the Educational and Community Services Dept.

Stills Available to Schools and Libraries

SETS OF SELECTED STILL PICTURES, chosen with special reference to their educational and research values, have been assembled for school and library display. These are based on standard works of literature and other significant motion pictures. The interest in and desire for mutual collaboration on the part of the producer-members of the Association make this service possible. These stills are provided at $1.00 per set on request of teachers of motion picture appreciation classes, and librarians. A list of motion picture titles on which sets of stills are available may be had on request from the Educational and Community Services Department, MPAA.

Speakers Bureau

The Educational and Community Services Department does not maintain a formal Speakers Bureau but is prepared to cooperate wherever possible in providing speakers for programs concerned with the moral, social or entertainment value of motion pictures. Requests for speakers should be made as far in advance as possible to the Educational and Community Services Department, Motion Picture Association of America, Inc., 28 West 44th Street, New York 36, N. Y.

The MPAA Library

The MPAA Library was established to serve as repository and reference for information on matters pertaining to film industry activities.

The informational services of the Library are available not only to MPAA staff members and member companies, but as well to non-members, exhibitors, educational institutions, civic groups, etc. The MPAA librarian each year answers by mail and phone hundreds of individual requests for information from industry as well as non-industry sources.

Compactly set up along institutional lines, the Library today has on its shelves some 2,000 texts on practically every phase and aspect of the film business. Supplementing these are thousands of pamphlets and clippings which have been carefully catalogued and cross-referenced. In addition, the Library keeps a running file of nearly every periodical in the film field and maintains bound volumes of the more important motion picture trade publications.

Another important service of the Library is to keep industry executives abreast of current comment on the motion picture business through the preparation of resumes and digests of significant new texts and published materials.

From its vast store of information the Library supplies, on request, basic materials for speeches and articles on motion picture topics to people within and without the industry. Scores of such requests during the past year have come from teachers and students.

EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

THE EDUCATIONAL BRANCH, established in 1946, functions as the liaison between the motion picture industry and educational institutions.

This is a two-way program, through which

1. The industry makes contacts with educational leaders for cooperation in the exploitation of feature films and shorts which have educational application, and
2. Extends to educational agencies such services of the industry as will contribute to educational objectives.

Through the Educational Branch, the industry is able to render a variety of services to education. These services greatly expand the use of the motion picture in schools and colleges, and give to the motion picture an increasing function within the educational world.

This program of educational services is based largely on the program of Teaching Film Custodians, Inc., the non-profit educational corporation sponsored by the member companies of the MPA, organized in 1938 to make short subjects available to schools. These short subjects, not available from other sources, were selected by groups of subject matter specialists, and are licensed on a long-term basis to educational film libraries maintained by state, county and city school systems.

The program is carried on without compensation to the producing companies and without profit to any education institution responsible for implementing this service. This program carries out the statement, "developing the educatioal, as well as the entertainment values and general usefulness of the motion picture," which was included in the purposes for which the Motion Picture Association was formed in 1922.

Under this program, nearly 500 non-current theatrical short subjects were made available in 1939. These were selected from about 15,000 short subjects, then in the vaults of the member companies, for use in educational institutions in strictly classroom work.

The selections were made under the supervision of the Advisory Committee on the Use of Motion Pictures in Education.

For the purpose of handling the physical distribution of the films, the educators who were members of this Advisory Committee formed themselves into a non-profit corporation known as Teaching Film Custodians, Inc.

In 1943 the member companies of the Motion Picture Association of America authorized Teaching Film Custodians, Inc. to excerpt non-current feature pictures in the interests of making classroom versions for study in classes of English Literature, social science and other curriculum areas. The excerpted versions of feature pictures are distributed for classroom use under the same licensing terms which govern the distribution of short subjects.

Under the terms and conditions of the contracts with the producing companies, Teaching Film Custodians, Inc. is permitted to license non-current short subjects and excerpted versions of feature pictures to schools for limited periods with stated limitations as follows:

"Prints will be furnished only to bonafide educational institutions and agencies; the exhibitions shall be before classroom or kindred groups composed only of bonafide students or enrolled members of such educational institutions or agencies, and such exhibitions shall be an integral factor of class or group study and discussion.

"Admission fees, directly or indrectly, shall never be charged or permitted to be paid for admission at the door or otherwise in advance or afterwards, for the right to attend either single exhibitions or a series of such exhibitions."

Under the contract, these classroom pictures must be projected without change or alteration. The unauthorized copying of these films is a violation of the United States copyright law. Any unauthorized exhibition of these pictures would also be a violation of the copyright law. Also, under no circumstances may the prints be used in television broadcasts.

The advisory committee has prepared a Handbook of Films for Classroom Use, listing and describing the short subjects and excerpted versions of feature pictures which, under this plan, are made available for educational purposes.

The advisory committee wishes to emphasize the experimental nature of this work and invites the cooperation of all teachers who use these films. It is hoped that records of the responses of pupils will be kept and that copies will be sent to the office of Teaching Film Custodians. These reports will be used as guides to the selection of additional pictures which are not now available. Schools of education and other research agencies are invited to send in the results of any investigations that they may make on the educational value of these pictures.

All funds over and above actual handling and distribution costs which accrue from rental fees for Teaching Film Custodians pictures are devoted to the further development of audio-visual education. Among the experimental and research projects to which Teaching Film Custodians has contributed are the following: The Motion Picture Research Project, Yale University; the Commission on Motion Pictures, American Council on Education; The Division of Audio Visual Education, National Education Association; and the Research Project in Film Evaluation in cooperation with the Adult Education Association, and regional audio-visual conferences in New York City; University of Syracuse; Atlanta, Ga.; University of Kansas; Los Angeles, Calif. (2); Sacramento, Calif.; University of Oklahoma; Hood River, Oregon; Indiana University (2); University of New Hampshire (2); University of Florida; Virginia State College at the request of the Conference of Presidents of Negro Land Grant Colleges, the State University of Iowa, and the University of Colorado. First, in connection with the statewide Iowa instructional program of the schools and colleges and subsequently in 1955, 1956 and 1957 the National Leadership Conferences on Instructional Materials at Lake Okoboji. In conjunction with the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Teaching Film Custodians has been co-sponsor of the Curriculum Enrichment Program in Rural High Schools, State Department of Education, Nebraska, and The Evaluation of Teacher Training Activities in Audio-Visual Education, State College of Washington. The Nebraska Program, based on a 4-year comprehensive study, is described in the book, "Enriching the Curriculum Through Motion Pictures," by Dr. W. C. Meierhenry.

The authorization by the member companies of the Motion Picture Association to excerpt non-current feature pictures has resulted in the expansion of the educational services program in the preparation of films to meet specific educational objectives. National organizations of teachers in specialized subject-matter areas seek the cooperation of the Educational Services Department, and appoint collaborating committees to assist in preparing useful materials excerpted from feature picture footage.

In 1946, the National Council for the Social Studies appointed the following committee:

Dr. William H. Hartley, Chairman, Associate Editor for Social Education; Dr. W. Kenneth Fulkerson, Director of Social Studies, Rochester City Schools; Dr. Frederick H. Stutz, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.; Dr. Lewis Paul Todd, Editor, "Social Education," Washington, D. C.; and Dr. Richard E. Thursfield, Chairman of the Department of Education, University of Rochester.

This committee, working closely with the staff of Teaching Film Custodians, and with the Motion Picture Association, has prepared subjects for use in world history classes, a series of subjects for use in classes on the problems on democracy and subjects on United States history.

The costs of this excerpting program are paid by Teaching Film Custodians, and the films when completed and approved are distributed by Teaching Film Custodians.

Teaching Film Custodians also sponsors and collaborates with audio-visual committees representing national associations of educators in preparing excerpted versions of feature pictures for classroom use. Among the organizations participating in this program are the Music Educators National Conference, the National Council for the Social Studies, the National Council of Teachers of English, National Science Teachers Association, American Vocational Association, American Home Economics Associations, Department of Home Economics of the N. E. A., and American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

A committee of the National Council of Teachers of English is now in the process of developing a program to expand the series of excerpted films in the field of English literature. A 17-minute motion picture, "Understanding Movies," has been completed for use in English, speech, dramatics and motion picture appreciation.

The most recent excerpts completed in the field of English are "The Gift of the Magi" and "The Last Leaf"; in the field of social studies, "Dad Explains About People" and "Queen Victoria and Disraeli."

In the area of social studies and citizenship these titles have recently been released: "The Hoaxters," "Why Korea," and an excerpt from "Something of Value."

For use in the Catholic school program a one-reel excerpt is being released from "The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima." The excerpt content has been determined through the cooperation of leading Catholic educators and the Catholic Audio Visual Association, and the teaching guide bears the imprimatur of the office of Cardinal Spellman.

Other subject matter area interests are in the process of negotiation for participation in the excerpting program.

This program has made the motion picture industry a very useful ally to education, and has developed common interests between the industry and educational leaders resulting in a clearer understanding of the relationship of the programs of both groups.

The educational branch encourages the screening of the series of 16mm informational and vocational films on the motion picture industry in school and community groups. The titles are as follows: The Art Director, The Cinematographer, The Costume Designer, History Brought to Life, Let's Go To the Movies, Moments in Music, Movies Are Adventure, Screen Actors, The Screen Director, The Screen Writer, The Soundman, This Theatre and You, and Understanding the Movies. These films are available from extension divisions of universities, school film libraries, public libraries and museums, or on application to Teaching Film Custodians, 25 West 43rd Street, New York 36, N. Y.

The Educational Branch is active also in cooperating with various national and international groups in developing the educational usefulness of motion pictures and particularly those which are produced by the member companies of the Motion Picture Association of America. These cooperative agencies include many cooperative projects with Government agencies with professional organizations in the visual education field throughout the United States, and with such international organizations as UNESCO, the American Friends Service Committee, and the Departments of Education of various foreign countries.

Since its inception, the services of the board members of Teaching Film Custodians and each of the cooperating committees have been rendered on a volunteer basis.

The negatives from which the prints are made have been made available by the members of the Motion Picture Association without compensation.

TECHNICAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT

THIS department of the Association was organized primarily for maintaining adequate fire and personnel safety in domestic film exchange operation. In recent years, its functions have been steadily expanding. They now include the supervision of logistical problems that occur in the distribution of films to the nation's theaters and providing technical services that pertain to the distribution, servicing, handling and storage of films, particularly of original negative material and film subjects archival in character.

The numerous projection processes and newly developed sound recording systems and their application, are now included in the department's widened technical scope.

The Association's safety program, developed along self-regulatory lines, has served ably to minimize losses by fire in domestic film distribution facilities. Evidence of the close adherence to the program by the Association's members is the steadily decreasing annual fire loss record, which now totals less than $168 per annum for the past 31 years.

In large measure, the striking success of this program is attributable to the thoroughness of the department's field work. This phase of its activities has as its goal the instilling of fire prevention consciousness among film exchange personnel, perfection in maintenance and housekeeping standards and the surveillance of regularly scheduled exchange inspections. Integrated with the field service is the continuing program of employee education in film methods required by new film basis, and practices developed toward absolute safety.

Other functions of the department include:

1. Maintaining close liaison with the national and international bodies interested in reducing fire waste. These groups consist of the National Fire Protection Association, Fire Protection Association of England, National Board of Fire Underwriters, National Fire Waste Council, National Safety Council, Bureau of Explosives, the International Association of Fire Chiefs and the various Federal departments similarly interested.

2. Providing technical assistance and encouragement toward the erection and maintenance of adequate facilities for the distribution and storage of motion picture films.

3. Extending cooperation to film groups outside of the United States for the purpose of acquainting them with the latest methods perfected for film servicing and handling efficiency and sharing the most recent thoughts for the protection of films held in storage.

Under the self-regulatory system, each of the nation's exchanges are inspected on a strictly adhered to monthly basis by a rotating group of area branch managers in each distribution center. These men are appointed for a period of six months service and are assisted in this work by the Conservation Department's director, who travels regularly to all of the various domestic exchange areas. During 1954, in excess of 4,560 exchange inspections were made of distribution facilities in this country.

Another phase of the protective activities of the Conservation Department is its continued survey of all non-theatrical institutions to obtain information on:

(a) Type of equipment used for the exhibition of motion pictures.
(b) Type and construction of projection booths.
(c) Experience and qualifications of projectionists.
(d) Whether or not the institution has the approval of a recognized public or state fire official.

Purpose of these investigations is to assure motion picture distributors that the service of films to these places of exhibition will be in conformity with local law and in accord with the industry's desire for maximum audience safety at all times.

AN ADVERTISING CODE FOR MOTION PICTURES

Administered by the Advertising Code Administration With the Advice and Cooperation of the Advertising Advisory Council of the MPAA

PREAMBLE: The purpose of the Advertising Code is to apply to motion picture advertising, publicity and exploitation, within their range, the high principles which the Production Code applies to the content of motion pictures.

The provisions of the Advertising Code shall apply to pressbooks, newspaper, magazine and trade paper advertising, publicity material, trailers, posters, lobby displays and all other outdoor displays, novelty distribution, radio copy and every form of motion picture exploitation.

We urge all motion picture producers, distributors and exhibitors, and their advertising agents, whether affiliated with the undersigned or not, to adhere to these principles; and, for ourselves, we pledge compliance with these principles without reservation.

1. We subscribe to a code of ethics based upon truth, honesty and integrity. All motion picture advertising shall
   (a) Conform to fact.
   (b) Scrupulously avoid all misrepresentation.
2. Good taste shall be the guiding rule of motion picture advertising.
3. Illustrations and text in advertising shall faithfully represent the pictures themselves.
4. No false or misleading statements shall be used directly, or implied by type arrangements or by distorted quotations.
5. No text or illustration shall ridicule or tend to ridicule any race, religion or religious faith; no illustration of a character in clerical garb shall be shown in any but a respectful manner.
6. The history, institutions and nationals of all countries shall be represented with fairness.
7. Profanity and vulgarity shall be avoided.
8. Pictorial and copy treatment of officers of the law shall not be of such a nature as to undermine their authority.
9. Specific details of crime, inciting imitation, shall not be used.
10. Motion picture advertisers shall be guided by the provision of the Production Code that the use of liquor in American life shall be restricted to the necessities of characterization and plot.
11. Nudity with meretricious purpose and salacious postures shall not be used; and clothed figures shall not be represented in such manner as to be offensive or contrary to good taste or morals.
12. Court actions relating to censoring of pictures, or other censorship disputes, are not to be capitalized in advertising or publicity.
13. Titles of source materials or occupations or names of characters on which motion pictures may be based should not be exploited in advertising or upon the screen if such titles or names are in conflict with the provisions of the Production Code affecting titles.
14. No text or illustration shall be used which capitalizes, directly or by implication, upon misconduct of a person connected with a motion picture thus advertised.

REGULATIONS FOR ADMINISTRATION

(The following regulations were adopted by the Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc., April 22, 1948, and amended June 21, 1950.)

1. These regulations are applicable to all members of the Motion Picture Association of America, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as the "Association"), subsidiaries of a member producing or distributing motion pictures, and to all producers and distributors of motion pictures with respect to each picture for which the Association has granted its Certificate of Approval, pursuant to an application therefor.

2. The term "advertising" as used herein shall be deemed to mean all forms of motion picture advertising and exploitation, and ideas therefor, including, among other things, but without limitation thereto, the following: press books; still photographs; newspaper, magazine and trade paper advertising; publicity copy and art intended for use in press books or otherwise intended for general distribution in printed form or for theater use; trailers; posters, lobby displays and other outdoor displays; advertising accessories, including heralds, throwaways, etc.; novelties; copy for exploitation tie-ups; radio and television copy.

The term "Company" as used herein shall be deemed to mean any person, firm or corporation.

3. All advertising shall be submitted to the Advertising Code Administration of the Association for approval before use, and shall not be used in any way until so submitted and approved as hereinafter set forth. All advertising shall be submitted in duplicate with the exception of press books, which shall be submitted in triplicate.

4. The Advertising Code Administration shall proceed as promptly as it finds feasible to approve or disapprove the advertising submitted on the basis of whether it complies with the Advertising Code.

The Advertising Code Administration shall stamp its approval on one copy of all advertising approved and return such stamped copy to the company submitting the same. If the Advertising Code Administration disapproves of any advertising, there shall be stamped the word "Disapproved" on one copy thereof, which shall be returned to the company submitting the same; or, if the Advertising Code Administration so desires, it may return the same with suggestions for such changes or corrections in the advertising as will cause it to be approved.

5. After advertising (as defined in Section 2 above) for a motion picture shall have been approved by the Advertising Code Administration, if circumstances arise, either before or after the picture's release, which in the judgment of the Administrator seem to require the withdrawal of all, or any portion of such previously approved advertising, then, after consultation with the Advertising Advisory Council, he shall immediately file a written report with the President and Secretary of the Association (a) setting forth the situation existing at the time such prior approval was granted for such advertising, (b) reciting the intervening circumstances with resultant changes in the situation, (c) listing the reasons why in the opinion of the Administrator all or a designated portion of the advertising previously approved should be withdrawn and (d) certifying that if such advertising were then being presented to him for the first time, it would not be approved by him under the Advertising Code for stated reasons.

If the President of the Association (or a Vice-President of the Association in the absence of the President), upon receipt of such report from the Advertising Code Administration, is of the opinion that the situation presented is sufficiently serious to justify consideration by the Board of Directors, the Secretary of the Association shall be instructed to call immediately an emergency meeting of the Board, at which meeting the Board shall sit as a Board of Appeal with adequate opportunity for the producer and/or distributor of the motion picture to appear in person or through a duly authorized representative and present reasons orally or in writing, or both, as to why the prior approval of the advertising should be affirmed, and with adequate opportunity for the Administrator of the Advertising Code to appear and present reasons, either orally or in writing, or both, as to why in his judgment all or a designated portion of such previously approved advertising should be withdrawn.

Thereafter, the Board, meeting in executive session with the producer and/or distributor of the picture not voting, shall determine by vote of a majority of the Directors present and voting, whether all or any portion of the previously approved advertising shall be withheld from use and/or withdrawn, and such action of the Board of Directors shall be final and binding upon the producer and/or distributor of said film.

When any previously approved advertising for a motion picture is withdrawn pursuant to action of the Board hereunder, the company withdrawing same shall be reimbursed the unrecoverable portion of its out-of-pocket expenditures for such advertising to the extent deemed equitable and proper under all the circumstances by the Board. The amount of such reimbursement shall be prorated among all members of the Association including the company affected on the same basis as dues to the Association are currently paid.

If neither the producer nor the distributor of said film is a member of the Association, then the non-member withdrawing such advertising shall be reimbursed the unrecoverable portion of its out-of-pocket expenditures for such advertising by the members of the Association to the extent deemed equitable and proper under all the circumstances by the Board.

6. Appeals. Any company whose advertising has been disapproved may appeal from the decision of the Advertising Code Administration, as follows:

Within 10 days after its advertising has been disapproved it shall serve notice of such appeal in writing on the Director of the Advertising Code Administration and on the Secretary of the Association. Said notice of appeal shall set forth the grounds upon which the appeal is taken. Within a reasonable time after the receipt of such notice by the Director of the Advertising Code Administration and the Secretary of the Association, the President or, in the event of his absence from the country or his inability to act, a board consisting of three members of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Association appointed by him, shall hold a hearing to pass upon the appeal. Oral and written evidence may be introduced by the company and the Advertising Code Administration. Oral argument shall be had at the hearing and written memoranda or briefs may be submitted by the company and the Advertising Code Administration. The President or said board, as the case may be, may admit such evidence as is deemed relevant, material and competent, and may determine the nature and length of the oral argument and of the written memoranda or briefs to be submitted. The President, or said board, as the case may be, shall decide the appeal as expeditiously as possible and shall notify the company and the Director of the Advertising Code Administration in writing of the decision. Such decision shall be final.

A company appealing from a decision of the Advertising Code Administration under Section 14 of the Advertising Code shall have the right, by written notice to the Secretary of the Association, to appeal directly to the Board of Directors of the Association, whose decision shall be final. The provisions relating to evidence, argument and written memoranda or briefs, set forth in these Regulations, shall apply to such appeals.

7. Any company to which these regulations are applicable, which publishes, or makes available for sale or lease, or which in any way uses advertising without prior approval as hereinabove provided, may be brought up on charges before the Board of Directors by the Director of the Advertising Code Administration, or by any of the following officers of the Association, viz.: the President, a Vice-President, the Secretary or the Treasurer. The company shall be entitled to receive a written statement of the charges and to a hearing before the Board of Directors. Within a reasonable time after the receipt of said statement of charges by the company, the Board of Directors of the Association shall meet in a Special Meeting to hear and pass upon such charges. Oral and written evidence may be introduced by the company and by the Advertising Code Administration. Oral argument shall be had and written memoranda or briefs may be submitted by the company and by the Advertising Code Administration. The Board of Directors may admit such evidence as it deems relevant, material and competent, and may determine the nature and length of the oral argument and of the written memoranda or briefs to be submitted. The Board of Directors, by a majority vote of those present, shall decide the matter as expeditiously as possible.

If the Board of Directors finds that the company has published, or made available for sale or lease or in any way used advertising without prior approval as hereinabove set forth, the Board may take one or more of the following actions:

a) Direct the Production Code Administration to void and revoke the Certificate of Approval granted by the Association for the picture so advertised and require the removal of the Association's seal from all prints of said picture, and the Production Code Administration shall thereupon do so;

b) Require the company, if a member of the Association, to pay to the Association as and for liquidated damages, not more than $100 for each publication, lease, sale or use of an unapproved item of advertising which has been published, made available for lease or sale or used, provided, however, that the total sum assessed for advertising relative to one motion picture may not exceed the sum of $25,000. The amount so assessed and collected shall be used by the Association for expenses incurred in the administration of the Advertising Code. It is recognized that any violation of the Advertising Code will disrupt the stability of the industry and cause serious damage to the Association and its members which cannot be definitively computed.

The decision of the Board of Directors shall be final.

8. Each company shall assume responsibility for seeing that all its employees and agents comply with these regulations.

THE MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTION CODE

As Enforced by the Motion Picture Association of America

FOREWORD

Motion picture producers recognize the high trust and confidence which have been placed in them by the people of the world and which have made motion pictures a universal form of entertainment.

They recognize their responsibility to the public because of this trust and because entertainment and art are important influences in the life of a nation.

Hence, though regarding motion pictures primarily as entertainment without any explicit purpose of teaching or propaganda, they know that the motion picture within its own field of entertainment may be directly responsible for spiritual or moral progress, for higher types of social life, and for much correct thinking.

On their part, they ask from the public and from public leaders a sympathetic understanding of the problems inherent in motion picture production and a spirit of cooperation that will allow the opportunity necessary to bring the motion picture to a still higher level of wholesome entertainment for all concerned.

THE PRODUCTION CODE

General Principles:

1. No picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of the audience shall never be thrown to the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil or sin.

2. Correct standards of life, subject only to the requirements of drama and entertainment, shall be presented.

3. Law—divine, natural or human—shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation.

Particular Applications:

I. CRIME:

1. Crime shall never be presented in such a way as to throw sympathy with the crime as against law and justice, or to inspire others with a desire for imitation.
2. Methods of crime shall not be explicitly presented or detailed in a manner calculated to glamorize crime or inspire imitation.
3. Action showing the taking of human life is to be held to the minimum. Its frequent presentation tends to lessen regard for the sacredness of life.
4. Suicide, as a solution of problems occurring in the development of screen drama, is to be discouraged unless absolutely necessary for the development of the plot, and shall never be justified, or glorified, or used specifically to defeat the ends of justice.
5. Excessive flaunting of weapons by criminals shall not be permitted.
6. There shall be no scenes of law-enforcing officers dying at the hands of criminals, unless such scenes are absolutely necessary to the plot.
7. Pictures dealing with criminal activities in which minors participate, or to which minors are related, shall not be approved if they tend to incite demoralizing imitation on the part of youth.
8. Murder:
   (a) The technique of murder must not be presented in a way that will inspire imitation.
   (b) Brutal killings are not to be presented in detail.
   (c) Revenge in modern times shall not be justified.
   (d) Mercy killing shall never be made to seem right or permissible.
9. Drug addiction or the illicit traffic in addiction-producing drugs shall not be shown if the portrayal:
   (a) Tends in any manner to encourage, stimulate or justify the use of such drugs; or
   (b) Stresses, visually or by dialogue, their temporarily attractive effects; or
   (c) Suggests that the drug habit may be quickly or easily broken; or
   (d) Shows details of drug procurement or of the taking of drugs in any manner; or
   (e) Emphasizes the profits of the drug traffic; or
   (f) Involves children who are shown knowingly to use or traffic in drugs.
10. Stories on the kidnapping or illegal abduction of children are acceptable under the Code only (1) when the subject is handled with restraint and discretion and avoids details, gruesomeness and undue horror, and (2) the child is returned unharmed.

II. BRUTALITY:

Excessive and inhumane acts of cruelty and brutality shall not be presented. This includes all detailed and protracted presentation of physical violence, torture and abuse.

III. SEX:

The sanctity of the institution of marriage and the home shall be upheld. No film shall infer that casual or promiscuous sex relationships are the accepted or common thing.

1. Adultery and illicit sex, sometimes necessary plot material, shall not be explicitly treated, nor shall they be justified or made to seem right and permissible.
2. Scenes of passion:
   (a) These should not be introduced except where they are definitely essential to the plot.
   (b) Lustful and open-mouth kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive posture and gestures are not to be shown.
   (c) In general, passion should be treated in such manner as not to stimulate the baser emotions.
3. Seduction or rape:
   (a) These should never be more than suggested, and then only when essential to the plot. They should never be shown explicitly.
   (b) They are never acceptable subject matter for comedy.
   (c) They should never be made to seem right and permissible.
4. The subject of abortion shall be discouraged, shall never be more than suggested, and when referred to shall be condemned. It must never be treated lightly or made the subject of comedy. Abortion shall never be shown explicitly or by inference, and a story must not indicate that an abortion has been performed. The word "abortion" shall not be used.

5. The methods and techniques of prostitution and white slavery shall never be presented in detail, nor shall the subjects be presented unless shown in contrast to right standards of behavior. Brothels in any clear identification as such may not be shown.
6. Sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden.
7. Sex hygiene and venereal diseases are not acceptable subject matter for theatrical motion pictures.
8. Children's sex organs are never to be exposed. This provision shall not apply to infants.

IV. VULGARITY:

Vulgar expressions and double meanings having the same effect are forbidden. This shall include but not be limited to such words and expressions as chippie, fairy, goose, nuts, pansy, S.O.B., son-of-a. The treatment of low, disgusting, unpleasant, though not necessarily evil, subjects should be guided always by the dictates of good taste and a proper regard for the sensibilities of the audience.

V. OBSCENITY:

1. Dances suggesting or representing sexual actions or emphasizing indecent movements are to be regarded as obscene.
2. Obscenity in words, gesture, reference, song, joke or by suggestion, even when likely to be understood by only part of the audience, is forbidden.

VI. BLASPHEMY AND PROFANITY:

1. Blasphemy is forbidden. Reference to the Deity, God, Lord, Jesus, Christ, shall not be irreverent.
2. Profanity is forbidden. The words "hell" and "damn," while sometimes dramatically valid, will if used without moderation be considered offensive by many members of the audience. Their use shall be governed by the discretion and prudent advice of the Code Administration.

VII. COSTUMES:

1. Complete nudity, in fact or in silhouette, is never permitted, nor shall there be any licentious notice by characters in the film of suggested nudity.
2. Indecent or undue exposure is forbidden
   (a) The foregoing shall not be interpreted to exclude actual scenes photographed in a foreign land of the natives of that land, showing native life, provided:
      (1) Such scenes are included in a documentary film or travelogue depicting exclusively such land, its customs and civilization; and
      (2) Such scenes are not in themselves intrinsically objectionable.

VIII. RELIGION:

1. No film or episode shall throw ridicule on any religious faith.
2. Ministers of religion, or persons posing as such, shall not be portrayed as comic characters or as villains so as to cast disrespect on religion.
3. Ceremonies of any definite religion shall be carefully and respectfully handled.

IX. SPECIAL SUBJECTS:

The following subjects must be treated with discretion and restraint and within the careful limits of good taste.

1. Bedroom scenes.
2. Hangings and electrocutions.
3. Liquor and drinking.
4. Surgical operations and childbirth.
5. Third degree methods.

X. NATIONAL FEELINGS:

1. The use of the flag shall be consistently respectful.
2. The history, institutions, prominent people and citizenry of all nations shall be represented fairly.
3. No picture shall be produced that tends to incite bigotry or hatred among peoples of differing races, religions or national origins. The use of such offensive words as Chink, Dago, Frog, Greaser, Hunkie, Kike, Nigger, Spig, Wop, Yid, should be avoided.

XI. TITLES:

The following titles shall not be used:

1. Titles which are salacious, indecent, obscene, profane or vulgar.
2. Titles which violate any other clause of this Code.

XII. CRUELTY TO ANIMALS:

In the production of motion pictures involving animals the producer shall consult with the authorized representative of the American Humane Association, and invite him to be present during the staging of such animal action. There shall be no use of any contrivance or apparatus for tripping or otherwise treating animals in any unacceptably harsh manner.

Reasons Supporting the Code

I. Theatrical motion pictures, that is, pictures intended for the theatre as distinct from pictures intended for churches, schools, lecture halls, educational movements, social reform movements, etc., are primarily to be regarded as entertainment.

Mankind has always recognized the importance of entertainment and its value in rebuilding the bodies and souls of human beings.

But it has always recognized that entertainment can be of a character either helpful or harmful to the human race, and in consequence has clearly distinguished between:

a. Entertainment which tends to improve the race, or at least to re-create and rebuild human beings exhausted with the realities of life; and

b. Entertainment which tends to degrade human beings, or to lower their standards of life and living.

Hence the moral importance of entertainment is something which has been universally recognized. It enters intimately into the lives of men and women and affects them closely; it occupies their minds and affections during leisure hours; and ultimately touches the whole of their lives. A man may be judged by his standard of entertainment as easily as by the standard of his work.

So correct entertainment raises the whole standard of a nation.

Wrong entertainment lowers the whole living conditions and moral ideals of a race.

Note, for example, the healthy reactions to healthful sports, like baseball, golf; the unhealthy reactions to sports like cockfighting, bullfighting, bear baiting, etc.

Note, too, the effect on ancient nations of gladiatorial combats, the obscene plays of Roman times, etc.

II. Motion pictures are very important as art.

Though a new art, possibly a combination art, it has the same object as the other arts, the presentation of human thought, emotion and experience, in terms of an appeal to the soul through the senses.

Here, as in entertainment,
Art enters intimately into the lives of human beings.

Art can be morally good, lifting men to higher levels. This has been done through good music, great painting, authentic fiction, poetry, drama. Art can be morally evil in its effects. This is the case clearly enough with unclean art, indecent books, suggestive drama. The effect on the lives of men and women is obvious.

Note: It has often been argued that art in itself is unmoral, neither good nor bad. This is perhaps true of the thing which is music, painting, poetry, etc. But the thing is the product of some person's mind, and the intention of that mind was either good or bad morally when it produced the thing. Besides, the thing has its effect upon those who come into contact with it. In both these ways, that is, as a product of a mind and as the cause of definite effects, it has a deep moral significance and an unmistakable moral quality.

Hence: The motion pictures, which are the most popular of modern arts for the masses, have their moral quality from the intention of the minds which produce them and from their effects on the moral lives and reactions of their audiences. This gives them a most important morality.

1. They reproduce the morality of the men who use the pictures as a medium for the expression of their ideas and ideals.

2. They affect the moral standards of those who, through the screen, take in these ideas and ideals.

In the case of the motion picture, this effect may be particularly emphasized because no art has so quick and so widespread an appeal to the masses. It has become in an incredibly short period the art of the multitudes.

III. The motion picture, because of its importance as entertainment and because of the trust placed in it by the peoples of the world, has special moral obligations.

A. Most arts appeal to the mature. This art appeals at once to every class, mature, immature, developed, undeveloped, law abiding, criminal. Music has its grades for different classes; so have literature and drama. This art of the motion picture, combining as it does the two fundamental appeals of looking at a picture and listening to a story, at once reaches every class of society.

B. By reason of the mobility of a film and the ease of picture distribution, and because of the possibility of duplicating positives in large quantities, this art reaches places unpenetrated by other forms of art.

C. Because of these two facts, it is difficult to produce films intended for only certain classes of people. The exhibitors' theatres are built for the masses, for the cultivated and the rude, the mature and the immature, the self-respecting and the criminal. Films, unlike books and music, can with difficulty be confined to certain selected groups.

D. The latitude given to film material cannot, in consequence, be as wide as the latitude given to book material. In addition:

a. A book describes; a film vividly presents. One presents on a cold page; the other by apparently living people.

b. A book reaches the mind through words merely; a film reaches the eyes and ears through the reproduction of actual events.

c. The reaction of a reader to a book depends largely on the keenness of the reader's imagination; the reaction to a film depends on the vividness of presentation. Hence many things which might be described or suggested in a book could not possibly be presented in a film.

E. This is also true when comparing the film with the newspaper.

a. Newspapers present by description, films by actual presentation.

b. Newspapers are after the fact and present things as having taken place; the film gives the events in the process of enactment and with the apparent reality of life.

F. Everything possible in a play is not possible in a film:

a. Because of the larger audience of film, and its consequential mixed character. Psychologically, the larger the audience, the lower the moral mass resistance to suggestion.

b. Because through light, enlargement of character, presentation, scenic emphasis, etc., the screen story is brought closer to the audience than the play.

c. The enthusiasm for and interest in the film actors and actresses, developed beyond anything of the sort in history, makes the audience largely sympathetic toward the characters they portray and the stories in which they figure. Hence the audience is more ready to confuse actor and actress and the characters they portray, and it is most receptive of the emotions and ideals presented by its favorite stars.

G. Small communities, remote from sophistication and from the hardening process which often takes place in the ethical and moral standards of groups in larger cities, are easily and readily reached by any sort of film.

H. The grandeur of mass settings, large action, spectacular features, etc., affects and arouses more intensely the emotional side of the audience.

In general, the mobility, popularity, accessibility, emotional appeal, vividness, straightforward presentation of fact in the film make for more intimate contact with a larger audience and for greater emotional appeal. Hence the larger moral responsibilities of the motion pictures.

Reasons Underlying the General Principles

I. No picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of the audience should never be thrown to the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil or sin.

This is done:

1. When evil is made to appear attractive or alluring, and good is made to appear unattractive.

2. When the sympathy of the audience is thrown on the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil, sin. The same thing is true of a film that would throw sympathy against goodness, honor, innocence, purity or honesty.

Note: Sympathy with a person who sins is not the same as sympathy with the sin or crime of which he is guilty. We may feel sorry for the plight of the murderer or even understand the circumstances which led him to his crime. we may not feel sympathy with the wrong which he has done.

The presentation of evil is often essential for art or fiction or drama.

This in itself is not wrong provided:

a. That evil is not presented alluringly. Even if later in the film the evil is condemned or punished, it must not be allowed to appear so attractive that the audience's emotions are drawn to desire or approve so strongly that later the condemnation is forgotten and only the apparent joy of the sin remembered.

b. That throughout, the audience feels sure that evil is wrong and good is right.

II. Correct standards of life shall, as far as possible, be presented.

A wide knowledge of life and of living is made possible through the film. When right standards are consistently presented, the motion picture exercises the most powerful influences. It builds character, develops right ideals, inculcates correct principles, and all this in attractive story form. If motion pictures consistently hold up for admiration high types of characters and present stories that will affect lives for the better, they can become the most powerful natural force for the improvement of mankind.

III. Law—divine, natural or human—shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation.

By natural law is understood the law which is written in the hearts of all mankind, the great underlying principles of right and justice dictated by conscience.

By human law is understood the law written by civilized nations.

1. The presentation of crimes against the law is often necessary for the carrying out of the plot. But the presentation must not throw sympathy with the crime as against the law nor with the criminal as against those who punish him.
2. The courts of the land should not be presented as unjust. This does not mean that a single court may not be presented as unjust, much less that a single court official must not be presented this way. But the court system of the country must not suffer as a result of this presentation.

Reasons Underlying Particular Applications

I. Sin and evil enter into the story of human beings and hence in themselves are valid dramatic material.

II. In the use of this material, it must be distinguished between sins which repel by their very nature, and sins which often attract.

a. In the first class come murder, most theft, many legal crimes, lying, hypocrisy, cruelty, etc.

b. In the second class come sex sins, sins and crimes of apparent heroism, such as banditry, daring thefts, leadership in evil, organized crime, revenge, etc.

The first class needs less care in treatment, as sins and crimes of this class are naturally unattractive. The audience instinctively condemns all such and is repelled.

Hence the important objective must be to avoid the hardening of the audience, especially of those who are young and impressionable, to the thought and fact of crime. People can become accustomed even to murder, cruelty, brutality, and repellent crimes, if these are too frequently repeated.

The second class needs great care in handling, as the response of human nature to their appeal is obvious. This is treated more fully below.

III. A careful distinction can be made between films intended for general distribution, and films intended for use in theatres restricted to a limited audience. Themes and plots quite appropriate for the latter would be altogether out of place and dangerous in the former.

Note: The practice of using a general theatre and limiting its patronage during the showing of a certain film to "Adults Only" is not completely satisfactory and is only partially effective.

However, maturer minds may easily understand and accept without harm subject matter in plots which do younger people positive harm.

Hence: If there should be created a special type of theatre, catering exclusively to an adult audience, for plays of this character (plays with problem themes, difficult discussions and maturer treatment) it would seem to afford an outlet, which does not now exist, for pictures unsuitable for general distribution but permissible for exhibitions to a restricted audience.

I. CRIMES AGAINST THE LAW:

The treatment of crimes against the law must not:

1. Teach methods of crime.
2. Inspire potential criminals with a desire for imitation.
3. Make criminals seem heroic and justified.

Revenge in modern times shall not be justified. In lands and ages of less developed civilization and moral principles, revenge may sometimes be presented. This would be the case especially in places where no law exists to cover the crime because of which revenge is committed.

Because of its evil consequences, the drug traffic should not be presented except under careful limitations.

II. BRUTALITY:

Excessive and inhumane acts of cruelty and bruality have no proper place on the screen.

III. SEX:

Out of regard for the sanctity of marriage and the home, the triangle, that is, the love of a third party for one already married, needs careful handling. The treatment should not throw sympathy against marriage as an institution.

Scenes of passion must be treated with an honest acknowledgment of human nature and its normal reactions. Many scenes cannot be presented without arousing dangerous emotions on the part of the immature, the young or the criminal classes.

Even within the limits of pure love, certain facts have been universally regarded by lawmakers as outside the limits of safe presentation.

In the case of impure love, the love which society has always regarded as wrong and which has been banned by divine law, the following are important:

1. Impure love must not be presented as attractive and beautiful.
2. It must not be the subject of comedy or farce, or treated as material for laughter.
3. It must not be presented in such a way as to arouse passion or morbid curiosity on the part of the audience.
4. It must not be made to seem right and permissible.
5. In general, it must not be detailed in method and manner.
6. Certain places are so closely and thoroughly associated with sexual life or with sexual sin that their use must be carefully limited.

IV. VULGARITY:

This section is intended to prevent not only obviously vulgar expressions but also double meanings that have the same effect.

V. OBSCENITY:

Dances which suggest or represent sexual actions, whether performed solo or with two or more; dances intended to excite the emotional reaction of an audience; dances with movement of the breasts, excessive body movements while the feet are stationary, violate decency and are wrong.

This section likewise applies to obscene words, gestures, references, songs, jokes and gags.

VI. BLASPHEMY AND PROFANITY:

It is clear that neither blasphemy nor profanity should be permitted on the screen.

VII. COSTUMES:

General principles:

1. The effect of nudity or semi-nudity upon the normal man or woman, and much more upon the young and upon immature persons, has been honestly recognized by all lawmakers and moralists.
2. Hence the fact that the nude or semi-nude body may be beautiful does not make its use in the films moral. For, in addition to its beauty, the effect of the nude or semi-nude body on the normal individual must be taken into consideration.
3. Nudity or semi-nudity used simply to put a "punch" into a picture comes under the head of immoral actions. It is immoral in its effect on the average audience.
4. Nudity can never be permitted as being necessary for the plot. Semi-nudity must not result in undue or indecent exposures.
5. Transparent or translucent materials and silhouettes are frequently more suggestive than actual exposure.

VIII. RELIGION:

The reason why ministers of religion may not be portrayed as comic characters or as villains so as to cast disrespect on religion is simply because the attitude taken toward them may easily become the attitude taken toward religion in general. Religion is lowered in the minds of the audience because of the lowering of the audience's respect for a minister.

IX. SPECIAL SUBJECTS:

Such subjects are occasionally necessary for the plot. Their treatment must never offend good taste nor injure the sensibilities of an audience.

The use of liquor should never be excessively presented. In scenes from American life, the necessities of plot and proper characterization alone justify its use. And in this case, it should be shown with moderation.

X. NATIONAL FEELINGS:

The just rights, history, and feelings of peoples and nations are entitled to most careful consideration and respectful treatment.

XI. TITLES:

As the title of a picture is the brand on that particular type of goods, it must conform to the ethical practices of all such honest business.

XII. CRUELTY TO ANIMALS:

The purpose of this provision is to prevent the treatment of animals in films in any unacceptably harsh manner.

METHOD OF OPERATION

The following resolution, approved by the MPAA board on June 13, 1957, became effective Sept. 17, 1957, with the announcement by Eric Johnston, president, of the official establishment of the new Production Code Review Board:

1. The method of operation under the Production Code to assure its uniform interpretation and application shall be as follows:

A. Prior to the commencement of production of a motion picture, the script therefor, or an outline treatment, or other suitable synopsis, shall, so far as possible, be submitted to the Production Code Administration. The Production Code Administration will receive such script or treatment in confidence, and will afford the submitting producer such confidential suggestions as experience, research and information indicate, stating whether in its judgment the motion picture to be based on such script or treatment would be in conformity with the Code or where in its judgment it would appear to depart from the provisions of the Code. Such opinion shall be subject to the final reviewing of the completed picture.

B. After completion of production of a motion picture, it shall be submitted to the Production Code Administration in its final form intended for release. The Production Code Administration, having viewed the picture, shall inform the submitting producer, in writing, whether in its opinion the picture conforms or does not conform to the Code, stating specifically whether either by theme, treatment or incident the picture violates the provisions of the Code.

C. If the completed picture is approved by the Production Code Administration as in conformity with the Code it shall, upon its release, bear upon an introductory frame in every print thereof publicly shown, the official Seal of the Association with the word "Approved" above, and the words "Certificate Number" below such Seal and the number of the Certificate of Approval issued therefor. Each such seal and the word "Approved" and the words "Certificate Number" shall not vary from the design therefor in the photograph attached to this resolution, and shall be of the same size in relation to the frame as shown in such design photograph.

2. A. The Production Code Administration upon the issuance of every Certificate of Approval shall be entitled to receive therefor a fee in accordance with the uniform schedule of fees approved by the Board of Directors of the Association, based upon a reasonable classification as to negative costs, and fixed in a manner calculated to meet the expenses of the Production Code Administration.

B. Non-members of the Association may submit to the Production Code Administration materials for their motion pictures prior to publication and completed motion pictures in the same manner as members of the Association.

C. The Production Code Administration may, in issuing a Certificate of Approval, condition the issuance of such Certificate of Approval upon the agreement that all prints of the motion picture named in such Certificate of Approval shall be an exact copy of the picture as approved by the Production Code Administration; that no scene shall be added to or removed from the picture without the agreement of the Production Code Administration except when required by any duly constituted public authority, and that the title shall not be changed without written approval of the Production Code Administration and, furthermore, that only such advertising and publicity material shall be used in advertising and exploiting the picture as is approved under the Advertising Code of the Association. The Production Code Administration shall reserve the right to void its Certificate of Approval for any violation of such conditions and to require the Certificate to be surrendered and the Seal removed from all prints within seven (7) days after the voiding of any Certificate of Approval.

3. There shall be constituted a Production Code Review Board, whose duty it shall be to hear and consider an appeal from any decision of the Production Code Administration withholding approval under the Production Code of any motion picture.

The Review Board shall be composed of not less than 16 nor more than 22 persons appointed by the President of the Association with the advice and approval of the Board of Directors. The President of the Association shall be a member and act as Chairman of the Review Board. The other members composing the Review Board shall be:

A. Not less than 8 nor more than 10 members of the Board of Directors of the Association. In designating such members of the Review Board the President of the Association shall so far as possible designate a Director representative of each Class B member of the Association.

B. A number of members equal to the members from the Board of Directors of the Association, inclusive of the President. Such members shall be chosen from the producer and exhibitor divisions of the industry in such proportion as may be feasible. No producer member of the Review Board, additional to the Directors of the Association, shall be a staff producer employed by a member of the Association. The exhibitor members of the Review Board shall be selected from national theatre circuit and non-circuit theatre operations.

4. The members of the Review Board shall serve for a term of one year and until their successors shall have been appointed. The President of the Association shall have authority, with the approval of the Board of Directors, to fill all vacancies conformable to the composition of the Board as herein provided.

5. The members of the Review Board required to travel for the purpose of participating in the hearing or the consideration of an appeal, shall be entitled to actual travel and subsistence expenses, which shall be paid to them from the funds of the Production Code Administration.

6. The procedure governing appeals shall be as follows:

   (a) Notice of appeal shall be given to the President of the Association by the persons having a proprietary interest in the motion picture which failed of approval by the Production Code Administration. The Association will notify the members of the Review Board of the appeal and arrange, as promptly as possible, a convenient date and place for the hearing and consideration of the appeal.

   (b) The identical print viewed by the Production Code Administration shall be made available for viewing by the members of the Review Board either before or at the hearing for the consideration of the appeal.

   (c) The Review Board, at the hearing, shall hear the party appealing in person or by representative, and receive such written communications, memoranda or briefs as such party may desire to present. The Review Board may also hear a representative of, and receive such written communications, memoranda or briefs as may be tendered by the Production Code Administration.

   (d) The Review Board may admit such evidence as it deems relevant and material and determine the nature and length of oral argument.

   (e) The presence of 11 members of the Review Board shall constitute a quorum. The Review Board shall, as expeditiously as possible, decide the appeal by majority vote of the members present and shall notify the parties in writing of its decision. Such decision shall be final.

   (f) No member of the Review Board shall participate in an appeal in relation to any picture in which such member has a proprietary interest.

   (g) In case of the ineligibility of any member of the Review Board to participate in the hearing or consideration of an appeal, because of financial interest, the President of the Association shall designate a substitute member of the Review Board pro tem for the purposes of the appeal. Such substitute member shall be of the same category as the member of the Review Board for whom such substitute member is designated to serve.

   (h) The jurisdication of the Review Board in determining any appeal shall be limited to reviewing the decision of the Production Code Administration and it shall be without power or authority to change or amend the provisions of the Code.

   (i) If it should be of the opinion that the circumstances in connection with any appeal are such that, despite the provisions of the Code as applied by the Production Code Administration, an exemption should be afforded, the Review Board in its discretion may make such exemption, but solely with respect to the picture under review; provided that any such decision shall be approved by a two-thirds majority of the votes cast.

7. The Review Board may adopt supplemental regulations governing its procedure not inconsistent with those set forth above.

8. The Review Board shall exclude from its membership any representative of a distributor member of the Association who has distributed a motion picture which was not theretofore approved by the Production Code Administration or by the Review Board on appeal. It shall be authorized for good cause in its discretion to reinstate such member on application therefor.

Personnel

Serving on the Production Code Review Board are Exhibitors: Russell V. Downing, Leopold Friedman, Leonard H. Goldenson, George Kerasotes, Ben D. Marcus, Sol A. Schwartz.

Non-Member Producers: John Ford, William Goetz, F. Hugh Herbert, George Sidney.

MPAA Members: Barney Balaban; Eric Johnston, chairman; Benjamin Kalmenson, Arthur B. Krim, Edward Morey, John J. O'Connor, Daniel T. Shea, A. Schneider, Spryos P. Skouras, Joseph R. Vogel.

COMPO OPTIMISTIC

By ROBERT W. COYNE

Special Counsel, Council of Motion Picture Organizations

INDICATIONS AS THIS IS WRITTEN, in the middle of February, point to a continuing upturn in the motion picture business this year. This belief is based on the grosses recorded by the many fine pictures released since the beginning of the holiday season, by the numerous plans for a steady flow of good product through the year and by the enthusiasm and cooperation shown in the planning of the business-building program which will soon become a reality.

COMPO looks to the future with optimism and is prepared to undertake with vigor all assignments entrusted to it by the industry. Its optimism is inspired by the excellent support it has received from all elements of the industry in the slogan and Oscar telecast promotion campaigns which have laid the groundwork for the much broader business-building program which is being whipped into final shape as this article is written.

COYNE

The industry slogan, "Get More Out Life . . . Go Out to a Movie," has not only been publicized almost daily in newspapers with a circulation of over 11 million, but has been dinned into the eyes and ears of millions of others through frequent radio and television announcements, motion picture trailers and through printed posters, car cards, menus and other advertising media of theatres and cooperating merchants.

SLOGAN POPULAR

In addition the slogan has been the subject of countless feature articles and editorials in newspapers from coast to coast, virtually all of which have commended it for its truth and simplicity. Furthermore, many of the articles have cited current film offerings in local theatres as evidence that the industry was giving meaning to its slogan. Popularity of the slogan has spread to Canada, Cuba, the Philippines, Germany and Sweden where theatres and newspapers are publicizing the slogan, or a foreign translation of it, to the movie-goers of those countries.

As this is being written final preparations are being made for the first industry-sponsored telecast of the Academy Awards on March 26, with every indication that this show will attract the largest audience ever recorded on TV by an entertainment program. Despite the fact that the telecast will compete, in some places, with theatres, exhibitors have cooperated wholeheartedly in publicizing the telecast. They do so with the realization that the potential audience of 70 or 75 million persons exposed for 90 minutes to the presentation of the coveted Oscars for the best picture and the best performances on a program featuring the appearance of 90 top film personalities, some of them appearing for the first time on home TV screens, will provide a tremendous stimulus to boxoffice attendance in the months to come.

B-B PROGRAM

COMPO, through its Press Relations committee, has been working for two years in drawing up a business-building program. It has coordinated its program with one directed by TOA and one drawn up by the Advertising and Publicity Directors committee of the Motion Picture Association of America, and has incorporated several ideas advanced by exhibitor associations. Because of the many interests involved and the necessity of obtaining formal approval of participating organizations of the changes involved as the plan developed, progress has necessarily been slow.

Meanwhile, COMPO is moving ahead with other projects entrusted to its care. The series of institutional ads which it has been publishing in the Editor & Publisher is now approaching the hundred mark, and the ads continue to elicit favorable comments both within and without the industry. COMPO also is ready to move for further tax relief. The recession in general business has improved the climate for further tax relief in the near future. When Congress convened, the nation's alarm over the implications of the Russian's success in launching the first satellite had created a public clamor for heavily increased expenditures to accelerate our missile and defense programs. Because of the heavily increased budget, leaders of both parties then held out little hope of any tax relief this year.

However, the staggering increase in unemployment, coupled with a sharp drop in the production of basic industries, led to widespread demands for a reduction in taxes to check the downward trend of business. Even the President, who has been unalterably opposed to a reduction in taxes until the Federal budget was balanced, admitted at a press conference that he would not hesitate to recommend a tax cut if the decline was not checked within the next few months. Although suggestions of tax cuts have been confined principally to income taxes and further relief for small business, there is reason to believe that when serious tax discussions get under way in the House and Senate further adjustments in excise taxes also will be considered.

COMPLETE REMISSION

COMPO has never deviated from its ultimate goal of obtaining a complete remission of Federal admission taxes. Although current exemptions from Federal taxes have lifted this burden from the backs of a large majority of the nation's exhibitors, the current tax on admissions of over 90 cents still imposes an intolerable burden on many theatres. These theatres account for a large percentage of the nation's theatre grosses, and many of them are operating at a loss or on a very thin margin of profit which does not allow proper reserves for maintenance and modernization. Obviously, the suspension of operations by any large number of these theatres would adversely affect the economy of the entire industry. These theatres gave financial support to past COMPO tax campaigns, and the industry will not fail to rally to their support when legislation for their relief is being considered by Congress.

The Treasury's overall receipts from movie admission taxes are now relatively small when considered in the light of total government receipts or expenditures, so that their elimination would not create any appreciable Federal budgetary problems. We have maintained close contact with Congressional leaders and are prepared to press for further tax relief whenever a suitable opportunity presents itself.

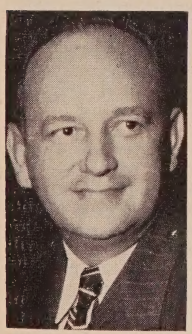
A COLOSSAL 1958

By ELLIS ARNALL

President, Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers

ONE AFTERNOON, when visibility was bad and the winds could not decide in which direction they would blow, I was on a DC-7 between New York and Los Angeles, and we set down on one of the fields somewhere between Pittsburgh and Kansas City. There was not much to do to pass the hour or so that we were likely to be there, except to wander around the airport building and look at the merchandise in the shops.

One of those that caught my eye was a "Do-It-Yourself" mart for folks with predilections for self-assembled materials to put together things like automobiles, trains and airplanes. If it had been a more practical kind of establishment, I would not have wandered in, for it has always been my argument that such matters as fixing leaky faucets, broken chairs and faulty furnaces had best be left to experts; and that is a good argument, if you can get away with it.



ARNALL

But the shop that had to do with wholly impractical and therefore imperishable things interested me a great deal . . .

There was an afternoon, a few weeks before, when I had been visiting one of the great independent producers, a man who was already a tradition in the motion picture industry decades ago, and who is even bigger and better today, and whose productions are never less than awe inspiring, stupendous and indescribably colossal. He was shooting his current masterpiece on one of the big lots and we strolled across it.

Compressed into the connfies of one thoroughfare, there stood New York City in the Gay Nineties, a space ship capable of carrying a full platoon to the farthest planetary system in Ursa Minor, one-half of a Viking ship with a prow capable of frightening Saxon landsmen into instant flight, the facade of an elegant country home that one knew instinctively must be inhabited by sinister and suspicious individuals, and a cowtown complete with general store, bar and undertaker's parlor.

Here too was a "Do-It-Yourself" shop for dreams.

The national economy in 1957 was pretty good. The national economy in 1958 will be pretty good. But box office lines do not depend altogether on whether the per capita potential expenditure for amusement and entertainment rises by $2.81 or declines by $1.69, although having more or less money may affect the take at the popcorn and candy concession. What influences box office lines is the quality of the production inside the theater. People braved bad weather to see Mary Pickford in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and they can be induced to venture into air conditioning next summer if the producers use the materials in their "Do-It-Yourself" shop to manufacture dreams worth dreaming—about New York in the Gay Nineties, or a voyage into space, or Vikings daring the fury of an excited sea, or a sinister scoundrel spinning a spider web in an elegant parlor, or a simple hero routing the ruffianly rustlers at Red Rooster Rock.

The last two years saw the motion picture industry engaged in more experimentation than any similar time since the Golden Age. Most of the experimenters were indepndents and most of the big successes at the box office came from the independent producers. They have proved, maybe, that there is something to the American idea that dreams are rather personal, and that dream-making is somewhat an individualized occupation.

Nineteen fifty-seven was a year of fewer movies. I think 1958 will see more pictures made and distributed, and more chances taken on new ideas and new plots and new ways of telling the story.

The making of movies is still an easy thing to do. All that is required to produce a success is to dream truly what would happen to a boy and a girl in New York in the Gay Nineties, upon a voyage in a space ship, aboard a Viking craft braving the Western seas, immured in the fastness of the elegant retreat of a ruffianly rascal, or in a cowtown that has as its principal enterprise a general store, a bar and an undertaker's parlor.

SPONSORSHIP A REALITY

By GEORGE SEATON

President, Academy of Motion Pictures Arts & Sciences

FOUR MAJOR DEVELOPMENTS made 1957 one of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences' greatest years of achievement. Interest in Academy affairs, by the theater-going public as well as the motion picture industry itself, has never been higher. It was during 1957 that all-industry sponsorship of certain basic Academy activities became a reality.

It was a year of fruition for many long standing projects aimed at encouraging greater excellence in the arts and crafts of motion picture making.

SEATON

The Academy's major impetus during the year came from the industry itself. On Sept. 9, the Motion Picture Association of America led the way by voting to contribute one quarter of one per cent of all revenues from domestic film rentals to the Academy. Since then approximately 200 independent producers, agents, personalities, and other segments of the industry have followed suit on an individual basis.

This makes possible, for the first time, industry sponsorship of the Awards Presentations Show and an expanded Academy program to promote Hollywood and its history-making product internationally.

In addition, all-industry sponsorship has brought about a spirit of cooperation between the many arts and crafts branches that has been a goal of the Academy since its inception.

Interest in Academy membership has increased immeasurably. More proposals for membership were received in 1957 than in any previous year. As a result, total membership has grown to 2,028, highest in the Academy's 31-year history.

But much remains to be done. Assured of genuine all-industry sponsorship, the Academy is prepared to participate in a variety of projects aimed at acquainting the American public with the many facets of film-making that takes places within the motion picture industry.

One of our primary objectives is to establish a motion picture museum. Ninety-eight per cent of the visitors to the Los Angeles area would like to see the studios, but unless they have a connection with the press, an exhibitor or a film company, they are unable to do so. A museum established as a major Southern California tourist attraction will be a project of which every branch of the industry can be a part.

The Academy already has a fortune of museum materials, dating back to the earliest days of the industry. With these items forming a nucleus for the museum, we will document the history of motion pictures, technically and personality-wise. In addition, we plan to provide for expansion as new advances are made.

Another of our projects aimed at acquainting the public with the cultural and artistic side of motion pictures will bring traveling museums to cities in the United States.

Top cinematographers are ready to visit cities where amateur filmmaking clubs or large camera clubs exist. Using local theatres to stage clinics, these cinematographers will demonstrate how a Hollywood cameraman does his job.

Important Hollywood costume designers have offered to conduct seminars on fashion and design as it applies to the motion picture industry.

Art directors and set designers, many of them "Oscar" winners, have also offered to go on the road to talk on interior decoration, with the exhibitor and department stores tying into the event.

Last year when the Academy Awards presentations were made, we received the greatest international press coverage the Academy had ever experienced. This came as a result of our broadening the field of eligibility for the foreign language film award and bringing the foreign nominees to Hollywood to attend the Academy Awards presentations.

This year, we anticipate even greater international coverage for more foreign countries have submitted entries in the 30th annual Awards competition than ever before.

Thus, all of Hollywood, from production company to theatre owner, will be united for the first time in honoring those who contribute most to the excellence of motion pictures.

TOWARDS NEW DISCOVERIES

By BARTON KREUZER

President, Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers

MOTION PICTURE AND TELEVISION ENGINEERING seems, within the past year, to have come out of its "period of critical evaluation" and once again has started making tremendous strides in the direction of new discoveries and developments.

Particularly in the fields of closed-circuit television, video tape recording and intercontinental TV, have there been marked advancements. Due to the increase in demand by motion picture and television audiences, there has been a mounting stress placed upon the film producers, both for the theatres and for videofilm.

KREUZER

Closed-circuit TV, one of the timeliest topics on the industry scene today, may be divided into three broad classifications. In the general field of education, we have begun to see the results, for example, in both the closed-circuit color installation at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center and in the Washington County, Md., school system, where in both instances it has already been put into use and is functioning smoothly.

A second aspect of closed-circut TV is its commercial use as an aid in such applications as multi-city sales meetings, with audiences as large as 15,000 in private showings in 150 cities simultaneously and in industry, where railway systems for example are using it to expedite their transportation problems.

As entertainment, closed-circuit television has brought such sporting events as championship boxing matches and football games to people in theatres all over the country. Much progress has also been made in toll TV systems for reaching the home audience.

Truly, the possibilities in closed-circuit television are so varied and so unlimited that it will be many years before the surface can be more than scratched for new possibilities of application.

TAPE ADVANCES

Advances, no less important in scope have been made in video tape recording, the use of which has mounted rapidly in the past few years. The development of color video tape may well be considered one of the most significant technological advances made recently.

In the area of missile photography instrumentation and high speed photography, the launching of space satellites and missiles has increased requirements for photographic documentation for scientific study and has created an almost insatiable demand for public knowledge.

Streamlining of motion picture and television equipment through the substitution of the transistor for the tube is rapidly taking place. Indeed, even greater reductions in size and weight may be forecast as scientists are working on the creation of electronic modules so tiny that the term micro-miniature has been used to describe them.

These new developments in the field were the object of the main focus of attention at the two SMPTE conventions in 1957, along with reports on 16mm printing and processing, and color film processing, military uses of television and international television.

The outstanding achievement awards given by the SMPTE in 1957 were presented Oct. 9 at the Sheraton Hotel, Philadelphia. The Herbert T. Kalmus Gold Medal for achievement in color was presented to Wadsworth E. Pohl of the Technicolor Corp. The recipient of the Samuel L. Warner Memorial Award for achievement in sound recording was Col. Richard H. Ranger, Rangertone Inc., while Charles P. Ginsberg of the Ampex Corp. won the David Sarnoff Gold Medal Award for television accomplishment. The Journal Award was given to Earl M. Lowry and J. Gordon Jarvis of the Eastman Kodak Co. and the Progress Medal, the Society's highest award, to Dr. Ralph M. Evans, also of Eastman Kodak Co. Honorary membership in the SMPTE was conferred upon Dr. C. E. Kenneth Mees, Vice-President in charge of Research for Eastman Kodak Co. until retirement, and Earl I. Sponable, Dir. Research & Development, Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp.

CANADIAN SECTION

One of the Society's more notable gains in the past year must certainly be considered the addition of our Canadian Section. Membership in SMPTE is currently up close to the 6,000 mark, the highest in the Society's history. An agreement has been reached with the International Cooperation Administration supporting associate memberships for qualified foreign nations who have been trained under the U.S. Technical Assistance Program, thus providing them with the Soicety's publications and the knowledge of current engineering developments in the motion picture television fields.

Some of the investments made in the past in the field of higher education are starting to pay dividends, as is shown in the formation of the SMPTE Student Chapter at the Rochester Institute of Tecehnology and in the numerous inquiries and applications for student chapters from other universities and colleges throughout the country.

The sub-committees on education for both the East and West coasts were extremely active in 1957 after the groundwork had been laid the previous year. Two courses in "Laboratory Technicians Training," and "Electrical Principles for Motion Picture Sound Recording" were held at N.Y.U. and there are more in the offing. On the West coast the SMPTE course in "Use and Handling of Film in Television" given at U.C.L.A. filled an urgent need of TV station operators. April 1957 marked the SMPTE's publication of a comprehensive listing of motion picture courses offered at colleges and universities in this country. In work is a similar list on television courses.

The activities of the Society's engineering committees moved apace during 1957, which saw 11 American Standards approved by the American Standards Association and 35 new standards proposed through SMPTE committees.

Servicing of the industry need for test films continued during 1957, during which requests were filled for more than 3,000 copies of the 41 films made available through the Society.

SMPTE sponsored exhibits at some of the major trade shows during 1957. The Society exhibit shared the spotlight at the International Photographic Exposition in March, held in Washington, D.C., at the National AudiO-Visual Association show during July in Chicago and at the TOA-TESMA-NAC show in November in Miami.

In looking toward the future, it appears as though some of the harvest so well planted through the years will continue to bear fruit in 1958. Certainly, technological achievement in the motion picture and television fields has taken on added importance. Engineers and scientists have new obligations to their country and to mankind that they cannot and will not ignore.

IMPORTANT STEPS FORWARD

By LOU GREENSPAN

Executive Secretary, Motion Picture Industry Council

IN A YEAR OF BOX OFFICE BLUES, more and more production decentralization and cries of "lack of leadership" in the film industry, the Motion Picture Industry Council made several important steps forward. Its activities and responsibilities were expanded and touched upon a variety of projects and problems.

Among these was the intensified campaign launched by the MPIC against the scandal sheets and those who supplied them with material. A permanent committee was set up by president George Murphy to consider means and ways to safeguard the welfare of the industry and the host of fine men and women in it. This committee pledged itself to relentlessly pursue the unsavory characters identified with the smut magazines and who, at the same time, prey on the industry.

Commenting editorially on the subject.

Variety said: "Perhaps the most affirmative approach that the film business is taking is the move by the recently formed Motion Picture Industry Council's committee re the Confidential mess. . . . Certainly this is one program that requires all-industry support, should get it, deserves it."

GREENSPAN

In addition to proving to its own satisfaction, as well as to that of the industry, that it can be a force for prompt and effective action when called upon, the MPIC also tested and proved its influence in promulgating an educational program designed to integrate the study of motion pictures in high schools.

More than 100 Los Angeles teachers enrolled during the Summer in a workshop co-sponsored by the city schools and the MPIC. Facing these teachers over a 10-day period were producer Jerry Wald, writer Jesse L. Lasky, Jr., actor Leon Ames, director Robert Wise, cameraman Hal Mohr, art director Hilyard Brown, music director Elmer Bernstein and film editor Leon Barsha, as well as story analyst Leroy Linick.

Each of these men gave an instructive account of his work and answered such questions as "Why wasn't the picture like the book?" "Why aren't more good books made into motion pictures?" "Aren't the movies an art form of their own?" "Is the movie a possible motivation for critical thinking?"

From the MPIC's point of view, the purpose behind the study of motion picture appreciation in high schools was to determine whether the movie-going habits of adolescents can be improved through class study. Whether desirable attitudes can be developed through the medium of motion pictures. Whether the neighborhood movie theatre can serve as an educational laboratory and whether movies, in general, can provide for high school boys and girls worthwhile and enjoyable literature experiences. In other words, if millions of high school students can be taught standards for judging motion pictures it is likely that a movement to make them intelligently critical of pictures would succeed in raising the level of taste among the rising generation of moviegoers.

It is the hope of the MPIC that similar film study classes will be instituted in high schools over the country. Already there have been echoes of this. All in all, this program is probably the most important piece of public relations the MPIC has yet undertaken.

Touching on a long considered field of importance to the industry—market analysis and research—the MPIC instigated a sample opinion poll with the aid of the Federated Motion Picture Councils. A cross-section survey brought out interesting responses from groups that included residents from all parts of the United States. With the poll aimed at women, it was no surprise to learn that a majority indicated preference for family-type films, a dislike of double features, approval of musicals, dramas and comedies—in fact of almost any type of film fare "enjoyable and free from excess sex and great violence."

"Watchdog" Activities

Pursuing its unremitting policy of acting as a "watchdog" for the industry, the MPIC struck back at the industry's detractors, and encouraged others who did the same. For example, it commended the rebuke given by a columnist to the writer of a caustic piece on Hollywood that appeared in a national magazine. On its own, the MPIC replied a number of times to misconceived articles about the film industry. When, for example, a Los Angeles newspaper overplayed a story about a girl-singer (not in films) by headlining: "Hollywood Star Attempts Suicide," a prompt protest from the MPIC brought about an equally prompt correction in subsequent editions of the paper.

Again, the MPIC gave grateful acknowledgment to Dr. Billy Graham for his stout defense of Hollywood, and sponsored a series of articles on "Hollywood's Best Families," published in the Los Angeles Herald-Express. The MPIC office arranged interviews and made available material for the stories which covered a long list of Hollywood's most solid citizens.

Believing there was a need for more information about foreign film festivals, the MPIC undertook to disseminate such information for the guidance of industry people planning to attend such festivals. In adopting this service to the industry the MPIC made it clear that it was not assuming any control or authority, nor did it intend to take existing functions of the industry or government. The MPIC program was set up following advice that industry personalities did not have sufficient information about festivals available to them.

Indorsed

The MPIC's Festival Information Bureau has been indorsed by Nathan D. Golden, director of the motion picture diivsion of the Department of Commerce. Mr. Golden commented: "I think an office to advise and indoctrinate a people who are going to film festivals is quite useful and necessary in Hollywood. The deportment and conduct of Hollywood people at film festivals are very important.

The MPIC's Library of Information was kept busy through the year filling requests for various types of information and material ranging from wide screen processes to drive-in theatre operation. These requests came in from all parts of the world—from South Africa to Mexico and from all sections of Europe and Asia. In addition, considerable information and material was made available to Hollywood sources, including MPIC member-oragnizations as well as industry members generally.

The MPIC continued to provide speaker-bureau services, too. Among the speakers were George Murphy, Ronald Reagan, Leon Ames, Jerry Wald, Robert Wise, Jesse Lasky, Jr., Serge Krizman, Hal Mohr and Elmer Bernstein.

Along with other activities the MPIC concerned itself with the important problem of national juvenile delinquency. The Council participated in the Citizen's Advisory Committee to the Attorney General on Crime Prevention and Juvenile Delinquency. Following the Committee's study its findings, significantly, included no recommendation for special legislation or censorship insofar as films were concerned.

In the year ahead the MPIC expects to continue to play an increasingly vital role in furthering the interests of the industry by initiating and carrying out programs that will best serve it in these trying times. These objectives and achievements can only be attained with the full cooperation and support of all branches of the industry, dedicated to common principles and objectives. Despite the many problems that beset it, by working together the industry can achieve an intelligent, aggressive approach to those problems and maintain a sound public opinion.

MARVEL OF OUR TIME

By WILLIAM F. KELLEY

Executive Director, Motion Picture Research Council

MORE PEOPLE ARE TALKING ABOUT MOTION PICTURES these days than in any other period since the giant post-war boom of the mid-forties, according to a widely quoted and highly accurate public-opinion poll. The reasons, according to this survey, are many and varied, but one of the most frequent comments by those questioned was their unqualified acclaim for the "big screen" and the beauty of dimensional sound.

All of which brings us, rather rapidly, to the point at hand. New equipment and processes have made today's theatre one of the real marvels of our time, a point even the most saturated television addict cannot deny.

KELLEY

But the big screen and associated sound systems have created technical problems such as theatre men have not had to face since that day back in the late 20's when picture and sound were first happily married on the screen.

A little over a year ago, the Motion Picture Research Council recognized the rapid introduction of new projection and sound processes would force existing equipment to critical limits. Too, we realized that technical information to remedy the situation, while readily available, was difficult to interpret and equally difficult to apply to specific situations.

To combat this informational void, the Research Council established a field service expressly for exhibitors which would, in effect, bring Hollywood's technical laboratory to every theater it was possible to cover.

During the past year, traveling Research Council technicians, especially trained for the project and armed with the latest technical data and equipment, were sent on tours throughout the country to help theaters with problems unique in their own situation.

In 1957, our representatives visited over 500 theatres in 12 states. They talked with theatre executives, with managers, with projectionists and with practically everybody responsible for getting a picture on a theatre screen.

From the information they gathered and from subsequent data supplied us by those with whom they talked, we have been able to accumulate a vast storehouse of research material that never could be duplicated in or by any laboratory.

By way of illustration, permit me to point to one small but representative example of this process.

Our field men discovered that focal drift caused by infrared heat on the lens element and mount of projection machines is a widespread problem requiring frequent and time consuming adjustment if a clear picture on the screen is to be maintained.

We knew that dichroic heat passing mirrors is an effective means of preventing such infrared heat from reaching the lens. But we also knew the cost of these mirrors is relatively high and they are not available for all types of projection lamps.

An efficient and low cost filter was needed and I can report to you that we have been experimenting with a low cost filter combining a dichroic coating with a water cell which we feel will stop the entire range of infrared and thus protect the lens element and mount.

I point this out only to emphasize that the free interchange of information by the Research Council and exhibitors can only result in broadening the base of our present technical knowledge, a most desirable and necessary goal.

In 1958 we hope to further increase the scope of our field program. Additional technicians are being trained and shortly will be sent into the field. An easily read manual suggesting possible solutions to many of the problems we encountered is being readied for mass distribution to theatre owners, managers and other interested parties.

And finally, let me stress that we are not judges or salesmen, the only thing we're after is information which will be beneficial to the entire industry.

WOMPI SUCCESS STORY

By LOIS EVANS

President of the Association of the Women of the Motion Picture Industry

THE WOMEN OF THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY—better known as WOMPI—have embarked on a program for 1958 which places heavy emphasis upon service. Each of the 10 clubs of WOMPI—including our new 1957 club, Kansas City, has established for itself an important position in the community.

Everywhere — in every club — one realizes that without the unselfish services and personal contributions of each member—the record of achievements—in the five short years of organization—could not have been accomplished.

EVANS

Dallas — the club with the vision that led to the organization of WOMPI as a service club, has put many hours into service work during the past year. They have participated in the National Polio, March of Dimes and United Cerebral Palsy campaigns. Their most outstanding service of the year being their work for the Dallas tornado disaster. A ton of food and clothing was collected and delivered.

New Orleans WOMPI's enjoyed their annual Christmas Party for 450 orphaned children. This club gives many hours to the various drives during the year and are particularly proud to announce their sponsorship of students at Nicholls High in New Orleans who belong to the International Organiaztion of Future Business Leaders of America.

The Atlanta club has been successful in it's many undertakings. Battle Hill Haven, a home for the aged, has been brightened by their monthly bingo parties. The Cerebral Palsy School continues to be helped each year when the Atlanta WOMPIs sell newspapers on "Old Newsboys Day," which is sponsored by the Variety Club and Atlanta Journal. Their newest project is helping to send an eight year old girl, handicapped since birth by deafness, to the Davison School of Speech Correction.

Members of the Memphis club have given their time to raising funds for Happy Acres, a home for mentally retarded children. They also spend one night a week at the Veterans Hospital folding towels and bandages. Food and money have been given to a former film industry employee who because of illness is no longer employed.

A project since the oragnization of the Charlotte club has been to help a 14 year old orphaned girl. Clothing and recreation are furnished by the club. Work is also done with the Charlotte Educational Center helping to supply free lunches and shoes for needy children.

Toronto, our only Canadian club, received much joy from their work with a crippled child, furnishing her with braces and sending her to Summer camp. Other projects have been working with the aged and orphaned teen-age boys and girls.

Six children were sent to cardiac camp for two weeks this year by the Washington club and two blood pressure outfits were furnished to a children's convalescent hospital.

Denver, which will be hostess to the 1958 WOMPI convention has done much to aid the muscular dystrophy work in their city. They have also given help to the Tuberculosis Society, the Children's Speech Clinic at Denver University and the House of Hope.

Since it's organization, the Pinecastle School for Retarded Children has been the project of the Jacksonville club. They have also worked with the Tuberculosis Association and are sponsoring a Camp Fire Girls group.

Des Moines was the first of our clubs to collect eye-glasses for "New Eyes for the Needy," which has been quite a success.

WOMPIs newest club, Kansas City, took time out in the process of organization to help with clothing and food for victims of the Ruskin Heights tornado last Spring.

When I look into WOMPIs future I am reminded of the words of one of our great poets "Give to the world the best that you have and the best will come back to you." With this motto as our goal how can we fail?

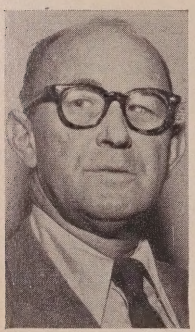
STATE OF THE UNION

By GEORGE AMY

President of American Cinema Editors

DON'T GO AWAY. This is not going to be a profound political essay. But, as president of the American Cinema Editors, it just seems appropriate to deliver the state of our union message. It also seems appropriate, after completing seven years as an organized group, to count our blessings and in retrospect review the results of our efforts.

To best describe who we are and what ACE stands for, we turn the pages back to the Fall of 1950 and quote our first president, Francis Lyon, who proudly stated:



AMY

"American Cinema Editors is an organization formed to bring into closer alliance those who desire to advance the prestige of the film editors and to increase the entertainment value of motion pictures by attaining artistic pre-eminence and scientific achievements in the creative art of film editing."

Today we have over 170 members, all ACE's, proving the truth in the words of our first president by their individual and collective contributions to the cause, and to the entertainment industry.

Most of these men and women of ACE are the same individuals who, just seven years ago, were virtually strangers to one another, although employed in the same industry. But the idea of organizing, first as a social group, was burning inside of them and ultimately culminated into ACE. Many of these talented men and women had often distinguished themselves in the profession individually, but unselfishly they banded together to make the idea of an organization a reality. The only selfish note, if you can properly call it that, was to elevate the profession in general, particularly within the industry, from the rangs of (if you'll pardon the expression) cutters to creators. (Most editors dislike the reference to them or their work as "cutters"; they are film editors.)

In the words of Lyon, the American Cinema Editor not only has attained artistic pre-eminence in the creative art of film editing, but also due prestige through the closer alliance of dedicated professionals. How it all was accomplished is virtually impossible to tell in one short article. Let it suffice in general terms of truth: Hard work; some disappointments; long, after-the-days-work hours; and an abundance of enthusiasm and ideas. We've also had lots of fun and genuine comradery too, through the years.

From its inaugural seven years ago, ACE and its many friends have enjoyed the social gathering at the annual dinner honoring award nominees (Oscar and Emmy) in the field of film editing. Aside from its social aspects, this event has contributed greatly to the prestige of the film editor, creating a better understanding of his efforts in the industry, the press, and the people, bless them, who pay to view his work.

In our seminars with industry leaders, ACE championed the call for cooperation among creative crafts for the betterment of motion pictures. In the unstinting participation with educators, ACE has imparted its thinking and teachings to the young aspirants who have to carry the ball (or the reel) tomorrow. In its creation of the Critics' Award for best editing of the year, ACE has honored and dignified the member and nonmember, and implanted good public relations with the people who carry the news to the public.

In sum, the American Cinema Editors not only exemplified the words of its first president, it has broadened the credo beyond expectation by adding other attributes without which many individuals, or organizations, ultimately fail. Most importantly of all such attributes is the deep understanding of human relations. We have been tested by time, and in seven years the report from ACE is that all is well with the state of our union. Now we look forward to many more years of a happy and productive association.

ADIEU, AND BON VOYAGE

By JOHN H. ROWLEY

Chief Barker, Variety Clubs International

YOU WILL BE READING THIS in the Spring of 1958, which marks the end of my two-year term of office as International Chief Barker. My successor will be named at the London Convention in April.

What better opportunity for me to say my adieus than at this time. I said in the beginning that this was the greatest honor ever conferred upon me. This position of high honor has consumed a lot of time and travel, which to me has been truly a labor of love. There will always be a great need for the humanitarian work which our world-wide organization engages in, and I am convinced more than ever that as long as that need exists there will always be Variety Clubs to do the job.

ROWLEY

We have the greatest organization in the world, with the finest people as its members. I salute Barkers everywhere, and I shall be eternally grateful to the officers of International, both elective and appointive, who have so ably counseled and shared with me in this heartwarming task. Certainly, insofar as I am personally concerned, I feel that my association with Variety has done far more for me than I have done for it.

I am looking forward to the London convention, which should be the greatest we have ever had, and moreover, I anticipate with much pleasure the opportunity to renew old friendships, and I hope to make many new ones.

I renew my pledge to work for all the good things that Variety stands for, and this encompasses a sincere desire to be of any service I can to my successor.

ACCELERATED ACTIVITIES

By SAMUEL G. ENGEL

President, Screen Producers Guild

THE CLOSE OF 1957 and the start of 1958 finds the motion picture industry in transition and the Screen Producers Guild's various activities being accelerated —as usual, only more so! At the year's close the project which dominates the scene is the fight to prohibit the sale of post-1948 motion pictures to television.

At press-time we have just held an important conference on this problem, with the SPG calling the meeting and with the Screen Directors Guild, the Screen Actors Guild and the Screen Writers Guild, as well as outstanding representatives of the theater operators, participating. The purpose was an interchange of information and views.

ENGEL

Among the theatermen who attended the meeting were S. H. Fabian, Leonard Goldenson, Elmer Rhoden, Frank Ricketson, Sol A. Schwartz, George P. Skouras and Mitchell Wolfson.

Our action in calling this meeting was impelled by our conviction that the problem posed by the sale of recent films to TV is one of the most serious facing the industry.

The SPG has long been convinced that this practice is suicidal and will sooner or later adversely affect everyone in the industry. We have long condemned it as a short-sighted, quick-buck policy, and we hope that 1958 will see this menace abated or removed.

The Guild's annual Milestone Award continues to be one of the outstanding social-industry events of the year honoring great moviemakers. The man thus honored in 1957 was Walt Disney, who in every sense measures up to the dimensions of greatness as a film producer.

The Milestone Award Dinner at the Beverly Hilton in February of 1957 was a brilliant affair and a fitting tribute to Disney.

Chairman Carey Wilson and the other members who managed the event did themselves proud.

Disney asserted: "I think I'd better retire now and get out of Hollywood so that I will do nothing in the future that will undo this wonderful tribute."

Climax of he evening came when Gene Kelly read a list of 37 countries and introduced a child from each nation dressed in an authentic costume and carrying the flag of his country. The youngsters shook hands or curtsied to the honor guest and most of them were kissed by him in return. The stunt was a complete surprise both to Disney and to the audience. Sixty-one members of the press, each with wife or guest, attended.

Another truly fireat film-maker and citizen, Spyros P. Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, has been named by the SPG as the recipient of the 1958 Milestone Award. This will be presented at a banquet in April.

Skouras, who was selected for his many humanitarian and charitable activities as well as for his distinguished record as the industry's ambassador at large, becomes the sixth to receige the Milestone Award, others being the late Jesse L. Lasky, the late Louis B. Mayer, Darryl F. Zanuck, Cecil B. DeMille, and Disney.

Our annual Inter-Collegiate Awards program for the best motion pictures made by college or university groups continues to be an inspiration to amateur as well as professional both to film-makers.

Last year, after looking over the entries, Lasky said: "No producer who is interested in the screen and in the thinking of the younger generation can afford to miss the films in this year's Inter-Collegiate Awards competition. They are a challenge to all of us. In viewing these films, we are not doing their creators a favor; rather, they are doing us one."

Winner of the Gold Award Medallion for 1957 was Allen Down of the University of Minnesota with a nine-minute subject titled "Swamp." The Silver Medallion went to USC for "Bunker Hill, 1956," as did the Bronze Medallion for "The Black Cat." The Honorable Mention films were "Beyond Teaching," U. of Illinois; "The Highest Ideals," U. of Nebraska, and "Who Kills the Tiger?" Wayne State University.

We are proud of the fact that our Inter-Collegiate Awards competition attract more and more groups each year, and that they have brought winners to the attention of the industry. Among those who have found jobs and recognition as the result of their entries are Herbert Skoble, director of USC's 1953 Prize-winner; Richard Hardman, 1953 UCLA Medallion winner and Dennis and Terry Sanders, 1954 UCLA Award winners.

With more than 25 entries already registered, the 1958 Inter-Collegiate Awards competition promises to be the most successful yet.

The ranks of the SPG have been augmented during the past year by the addition of many highly qualified creative producers. We have every reason to be gratified by this increasing growth. All together we face a year which undoubtedly will present challenging problems. We hope to be able to face them with assurance and confidence.

SAG HAS BIG YEAR

By JOHN L. DALES

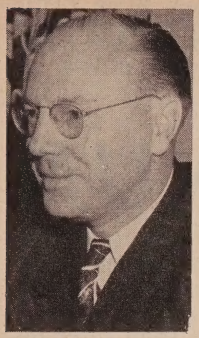
National Executive Secretary, The Screen Actors Guild

WHILE THE SCREEN ACTORS GUILD faces the future with confidence, no chronicle of the Guild's activities in 1957 would be complete without a firm statement of the Guild's increasing concern over (1). the increasing amount of picture production abroad by American interests, and (2) the bad effect on the entire motion picture industry of the sales to television of films made for theatrical exhibition.

It is with extreme regret that the Screen Actors Guild has been forced to make more and more deals for the televising of post-1948 theatrical pictures. We use the word "forced" because we are usually faced with a fait accompli in which the pictures have already been sold to television, subject only to the making of agreements with the talent guilds, with the ever-present threat of liquidation or foreclosure which would result in the pictures going into television and the actors getting nothing.

There is no doubt in our mind but that the motion picture industry is being badly hurt by the sales to television of post-1948 theatrical features. We are inclined to believe that only sheer necessity, not long range thinking and planning, has caused these sales.

During the year 1957, the Guild distributed to its members the sum of $2,576,491 in residual payments on television entertainment films. (Under the Guild contract, the actors in filmed television entertainment programs are paid residuals on the second to the sixth run inclusive.)



DALES

This, of course is an impressive sum of money and it helps in a small way to compensate for the money which American actors lose through the production abroad of a large number of American features.

While the Guild always has recognized that some features must be made abroad for locale purposes, we view with growing concern the trend to increase American production abroad and to reduce it in this country.

Despite various uncertainties in our industry, the national paid-up membership of the Guild increased during the year from 10,082 to 11,174, of whom 7,873 are in Hollywood and 2,567 in New York.

During the year, Walter Pidgeon completed five years as president of the Guild and was succeeded by Leon Ames, previously first vice-president.

The Guild has been most active on the Washington scene, leading the industry in a successful fight against proposed new tax regulations that would have driven many independent producing companies out of business. We are also prepared, when the right time comes, to battle for tax reduction and tax averaging to help increase domestic production.

Looking ahead, the Guild believes that the motion picture industry will overcome its present difficulties, solve its problems and emerge stronger than ever.

THE YEAR OF THE SPUTNIK

By GEORGE SIDNEY

President, Screen Directors' Guild

SPUTNIKS, TELEVISION, and as usual, people, were in the headlines during 1957. Some of the latter found a reason to manufacture gloom or at least some clouds of gloom. A voice out of Chicago wailed about the closing of all the motion picture studios. Some said that the voice was carried in from the Florida beaches and that owner of said voice hadn't been concerned about motion pictures, studios or theaters until the dollars had failed to stack up in the bank as they had in the past.

Whatever the reason, the wail caused discussion; the discussion caused searching insight and in most cases, the patient hadn't or hasn't been buried nor plans to be. When last seen they were chasing scripts, actors, money and studio space all around our town of Hollywood.

SIDNEY

Here at the Screen Directors' Guild, there was a great deal of that type of running during a very busy, very fruitful year. Plans for 1958 show a year filled with opportunities and lots of work in all directions. Our first major project was begun in 1957 for all of the Guild's agreements with the majors, the independents, and the Alliance of Television Producers expire in the first four months of 1958. In order to cover all the problems of work in our business and reach jointly acceptable agreements for the future, the old fashioned midnight oil lamps have been cleaned and repaired for they are going to be burned.

The Guild's Educational and Benevolent Foundation granted two scholarships during 1957 to students at UCLA and USC whose graduate study will be in the field of direction.

The growth of television and the expansion of re-runs and residual payments have required much more work in our Guild office for in 1957 our members received $420,000 in re-run payments. This brought the overall total since 1954 to more than $850,000.00.

The Annual Awards Dinner was held again in the Biltmore Bowl and our membership oversubscribed that dinner to such an extent that we almost had to move the walls of the hotel to make room for the turnout. Our membership has now grown to more than 1,100 members and we have no convention-type accommodations in Los Angeles or Hollywood where a dinner can be held for this size membership.

Our Guild Theater was very busy in 1957, especially during the last three months and during late November and December, because of the pending Academy Awards, we had screenings almost every night. January and February of 1958 followed the same pattern. As a working Guild in the motion picture business, we look forward to 1958.

E PLURIBUS UNUM

By EDMUND HARTMANN

President, Writers Guild of America, West

THREE AND ONE HALF YEARS AGO, I organized writers from three distinct entertainment industries into a single writer's guild. The Radio, Television, and Screen branches became a well knit confederation of sovereign states. Within a year, the radio writers realized that their membership and their craft problems had dwindled with the shrinking of the radio industry. The radio and television branches then combined into a single branch of the guild.

There is naturally discussion and consideration of eliminating all branch classifications and separate boards and operating as a single Writer's Guild, encompassing radio, television, and screen writers.

HARTMANN

More and more writers are working in both television and screen media. A large segment of our membership already belongs to both branches. There are few screen writers who do not earn at least a part of their incomes from writing for television.

The ultimate hope of our guild is to establish a basic contract covering all forms of writing and guaranteeing such minimum objectives as separation of rights, the leasing of material with copyrights to be retained by the writers, and the payment of royalties in all outlets for continued use, with natural variations and compensation in relation to the fields covered.

Certainly these arguments indicate the necessity of a single writer's guild without separated branches, and there is no doubt that it will be the ultimate form of our organization.

Yet, I don't think the time has arrived to take this last step.

Writing for theatrical distribution and writing for television release are still separate and distinct occupations. There are more than enough craft problems to occupy the branch boards in their separate meetings. These problems would neither interest nor involve the other branch and a lot of meeting time would be wasted if unique craft problems had to be discussed before the entire Council.

There is still a feeling of branch pride and identity. Screen writers have a long tradition of working for their own guild and a good deal of justifiable loyalty. They are trustees for the large SWG, Inc., bank account built out of member's dues. They make such events as the Annual Screen Awards Dinner a matter of pride for all writers.

Television and radio writers have just as much craft pride and loyalty. Their growing strength and activities seem to be the future hope of the Guild. Their annual awards, both in book form and award parties, and their meetings and seminars, are the beginnings of regular events soon to equal the Screen Awards. This is a friendly and healthy competition. There is nothing destructive in the attitude of the two branches toward each other. Each branch knows well that in the event of difficulties, of whatever kind, the other branch could be counted on for full support.

I am certain that we will become a single unit Guild in the foreseeable future. I am just as certain that many of our members are not ready to give up craft distinction yet.

Let us make haste slowly. We are building a building. We are shaping the administrative staff to occupy this building. We are fighting to improve a series of basic contracts with our various employers. We are in many other important enterprises involving writers.

None of us is so conservative that he holds fast to old manners and methods for the sake of conservatism. But it is pointless and destructive to force a divisive issue, when the issue's resolution is a matter of natural and speedy progress.

CHANGING WITH THE TIMES

By SERGE KRIZMAN

President, Society of Motion Picture Art Directors

CHANGING WITH THE TIMES has been a necessity of the profession with the Society of Motion Picture Art Directors for the last 20 years. But due to the ever increasing importance of television, we were faced with the challenge of still greater readjustments during 1958. For example, only two short years after last revising the by-laws and working rules, it became necessary to up-date the "old" method of representation on the board of directors.

The new rules call for the addition of three representatives on the board from the live television field, and six additional representatives from independent motion pictures. This latter change clearly indicates the rapidly increasing importance of TV filmmaking to the art directors in particular, and show business in general.

KRIZMAN

Flexibility of operation, though, is nothing essentially new to us. In 1956, the SMPAD eliminated all distinctions between the various Hollywood entertainment media within its ranks—except for realistic differentials in fees and rates, wherever equitable.

We are also merely enlarging on long-time policy of being governed by and through the various media groups. Currently, both the vice-president and myself were elected out of the television film field, while the secretary and the administrator were chosen from the theatrical motion picture industry, and the treasurer from live television.

I might add that all of the Society officers have the present vice-president are serving out at least their second terms of office. So a great amount of administrative continuity has been preserved, for all of the ever-changing conditions under which we work from month to month!

Being president of an oragnization that insists on constant adjustment with the times, however, is a tremendous challenge. It would be far simpler for all of the officers and board members to serve an administration charged with maintaining the status quo.

But we of the SMPAD are sold on the idea that administrative rules are made only to be revised with swiftly changing times. The true values to be retained at all costs are the values of artistic tradition professional experience, and integrity. Such values are only increased by flexible administrative procedures.

The art director works with his fellow society members at the organized job of building the profession's prestige and efficiency. Yet essentially, each one of us is an individual creative artist working on a team. The less ponderous we can make the society's working mechanism, the more efficiently it can operate to the best interests of all allied media. That will leave us all free for our basic. creative work.

COUNTER-ATTACK READIED

By ROBERT SILL

West Coast Bureau, The Film Daily

HOLLYWOOD

AS THE NEW YEAR DAWNED, there was a heartening feeling throughout the motion picture industry that 1958 could be the year of grace, the year that would see the implementation of a united and successful counter-attack against an ominous decline in theatre revenues.

The immediate justification for the emergence of new hope and a cautious optimism was a gratifying reversal, during the final days of the old year and the opening days of the new year, of the downward trend in revenues that had accelerated so alarmingly during the last months of 1957.

It was clear enough that the upturn in business was largely attributable to the release of some exceptionally fine product at this time, but the important point was that there could be and actually was an upturn, thus giving the lie dramatically to the pessimists, and there were many of them, who had been proclaiming that the motion picture theatre was inevitably doomed.

With the tide turning, the weather clearing and the cloud of gloom drifting away, motion picture people seemed for the first time to be able to look around them at the rest of the business community, and then they began to realize that they had not been alone, that the economy of the nation as a whole had suffered grievously during that last quarter of 1957.

Industry leaders now realize that one of the reasons why television has had such a destructive effect on the motion picture business is that the movie people permitted their industry to be used by television to build up its potential as a rival form of entertainment.

There is no denying that this realization came almost too late to the production and distribution companies, although it was certainly evident to the theatre people from the very outset. What has been heartening to the latter is that the responsible leaders in the production and distribution fields now have given plentiful evidence that they know the easy cash obtained by selling films to a competing medium that had trouble supplying its public with sufficient programming was a delusive gain, that the damage to their potential revenues from current and future productions was greater in the long run than their immediate cash gains.

The most dramatic proof to theatre men that their concern over television competition had finally communicated itself to Hollywood was a statement issued early last December by G. Engel on behalf of the Screen Producers Guild, of which he is president. Calling upon all segments of the film industry to hold the line against the sale of post-1948 pictures, it described the sale of features to television as a "suicidal method of distribution, which is nothing more or less than a 'quick-buck' method of liquidation of valuable assets."

More significant than the statement itself was a call issued by the producers guild for a general meeting in Hollywood of representatives of all elements of the film business to discuss the problem.

Such a meeting was held about six weeks later, with the Guild acting as host. Some of those who attended were disappointed at what they regarded as a failure to do more than discuss the problem and come to general agreement. They were in a minority, however, for most of those present were aware that no formal compact to withhold films from any possible purchasers or lessees could have been made, for such an instrument could easily be construed by the government as a conspiracy in restraint of trade and make the parties to it subject to prosecution.

Even without such formal action, however, the meeting had great significance, for it was the first time that top executives in the exhibition field, top men in the production and distribution fields and representatives of the talent guilds had ever come together to examine and reach even informal agreement on their common desire to combat what they now all agreed was a threat to all of them. It is significant that since the meeting top executives of four major companies have publicly made voluntary pledges to keep their post-1948 pictures from free television.

Aside from the evidences of a new cooperative spirit within the industry and the salutary business upturn at the beginning of the year, which both contributed heavily to a surprising surge of optimism, it is possible that this optimism represented too somewhat of an angry reaction in Hollywood to some of the more extreme prophets of doom. Certainly Hollywood was as one man in denouncing the prophecy made by Edwin Silverman, prominent mid-West exhibitor, in December that all but possibly one major film studio would be shut down within six months. No one but Silverman knows today whether he really meant that or whether he was just goading the studios to take proper defensive measures against the television competition.

In any event, every major film plant except Universal-International announced production plans for 1958 which at least equalled and in some cases surpassed those of 1957. This was also true of such large independent producers as Hecht-Hill-Lancaster.

It is possible that the announced production goals will not be realized, but that will not be anything new in this business of turning out motion picture entertainment. Failure to achieve the goals, however, should not convict any producing firm of either fatuous optimism or deliberate misrepresentation.

Making motion pictures is not a mere factory operation, a matter of taking standard grades of raw materials and turning them into finished products by the use of machinery and labor whose rate of production can be precisely determined. With all the good intentions in the world, it is not possible for a movie-maker to be certain that a satisfactory script for a picture will be completed by a set date. And it is becoming increasingly difficult to be certain that all the important personnel involved in a production will be available on the date the producer wishes to start a picture. That is because very few top-ranking cameramen or directors and virtually no stars are under exclusive contract to any production firm today. They cannot be told just to report for work on any particular day, for they have commitments with other producers too, so it has become a matter of considerable difficulty merely to assemble a competent cast and crew on any particular target date.

Despite such factors, the big production organizations do attempt to plan far in advance, for the nature of the business makes that absolutely essential. In modern times at least, there has never been a production of any magnitude on which the planning and much of the preparation, such as script writing, set and costume designing, and even casting, did not start at least a year in advance of the day the first scene was filmed.

The most ambitious production schedule announced by any of the major studios is that of 20th Century-Fox, which proclaimed that it has budgeted $65,000,000 for the production of 65 features this year, including about 25 from its affiilate, Regal Films, which specializes in low-budget films. Among the outstanding projects listed were: "The Diary of Anne Frank," "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness," "Rally Round the Flag, Boys," "Compulsion," "The Roots of Heaven," "A Certain Smile," "The Bravados," "The Story of Ruth," "The Sound and the Fury,' "Tender is the Night" and "Mary Magdelene."

Seeking to regain its former pre-eminence, MGM has definitely promised a minimum of 24 top-budget attractions for production this year, including one of its most ambitious ventures of some years, the new version of its great silent-day hit, "Ben Hur." Other top productions on this year's list include "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Green Mansions," "Tunnel of Love," "Infamy at Sea," "Imitation General," "The Reluctant Debutante," "Some Came Running," "The Boy Friend," "Bells Are Ringing," "The Blessing" and "Northwest by North."

Paramount did not announce any fixed production total, the reason being, according to president Barney Balaban, "in order to leave ourselves free to accept any desirable projects as they develop." As the year began that studio was still engaged on one of its biggest productions in recent years, "The Buccaneer," and then it started "Rock-a-bye Baby." Others set to get under way early in the year were "The Black Orchid," "King Creole," "The Party Crashers," "Transfer" and "Battle Star."

Warner Bros. was another studio which did not attempt to forecast a full year's production, but it did predict that in the course of the year it would probably exceed any production budget of recent years. First big picture it put into production this year was "The Naked and The Dead," in which it was partnered with RKO. Other big ones set for filming in 1958 included "The Nun's Story," "Auntie Mame," "The Ice Palace," "Damn Yankees," "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," "Home Before Dark," "John Paul Jones," "The Philadelphian," "A Letter from Peking," "Summer Place" and "The Big Red One." Also a distinct possibility to go before the cameras this year was "The Miracle," to be filmed in the new Cinemiracle process.

Columbia Pictures also has an extensive program of top features slated for filming this year, some of them being "The Last Hurrah," "Bell, Book and Candle," "Andersonville," "Me and the Colonel," "The Last Angry Man," "The Wreck of the Old 97," "They Came to Cordura," "The Mark Hellinger Story," "The Image Makers," "The Chase," "Gunman's Walk," "The Number One' and "Pepe."

Among the smaller studios, both Allied Artists and Walt Disney Productions have both announced they would produce more features in 1958 than they did last year. This is also true of such organizations, specializing in the lower budget field, as AB-PT, American International and Gannaway International.

Meanwhile, it is true that there have been no indications of either RKO or Republic becoming an important production factor again, and it is also true that at the outset of the year Universal-International, which then had a backlog of more than 30 features, had no definite plans for any productions for at least six months following the completion of two features it was to produce in January.

Somewhat as an offset to this in the field of top quality product was an indication that there would be more features filmed by the so-called independents for which United Artists serves as both a financing and releasing organization. Near the end of last year, U.A. added to the list the Mirisch Co., which at once announced an ambitious schedule of a dozen features, all with top budgets and good star names, of which it expects to produce at least half this year.

The chief recent source of top U.A. attractions, Hecht-Hill-Lancaster, promised that 1958 would be the biggest year in its history, listing 12 features for production, starting with "Run Silent, Run Deep" and "Separate Tables" early in the year and continuing with "The Devil's Disciple," "Colonel Redl," "The Summer of the 17th Doll," "Take A Giant Step, "Rabbit Trap," "The Unforgiven," "The Catbird Seat," "First Love," "The Dreamers" and "The Hitchhiker."

With pictures also scheduled from such previous contributors of topnotch films to the U.A. program as Stanley Kramer Prods., Kirk Douglas' Bryna Prods., John Wayne's Batjac Co., and the Edward Small-Arthur Hornblow partnership, and added starters in the form of production deals with Frank Sinatra, Robert Mitchum and Tyrone Power, U.A. could well be responsible this year for the greatest production program of "A" product in its history. It will also continue to handle small-budget features from several independent producers.

In regard to what is termed independent production nowadays, it should be noted that the past year saw even a further extension of a form of production deal that has become almost a standard throughout the industry but which has led to a widespread misapprehension concerning current Hollywood business practice. What is meant is that, while the genuine independent producer has been steadily vanishing from the Hollywood scene, uninformed commentators have been remarking for the past decade upon what they termed a growth of independent production.

It is true that a change in the production pattern has been taking place during the past 10 years and that today the majority of top attractions are turned out by producers and producing companies which are generally referred to, somewhat inaccurately, as independents. The distinction between them and the true independent may seem merely a matter of semantics but it is important to point out if one is to understand the prevailing pattern of the production business in Hollywood today.

The genuine independent, of whom there were a great many up to about 1947, was the man who either used his own capital—this was a very rare individual—or was himself responsible for the financing of his production venture, usually by a bank loan. Once he had obtained the financing for his venture, he was the sole and absolute boss over every detail of his production. In rare cases he would sell his completed picture outright to some distributing company, but usually he made a straight releasing deal, either with a releasing company like United Artists or with the distribution division of one of the major studios.

Of these rugged individualists there is just one left today in the big-budget fields, and he is Samuel Goldwyn, who has expressed his independence even further of late by doing his own distributing too. It is worthy of remark that in this, his 75th year, he will embark on one of the most ambitious and costly productions of his career, the picturization of the Gershwin opera, there is still an occasional one who fits the rigid definition of independent producer, but the only one who has a program of high-budget production at this writing is C. V. Whitney.

The chief reason for the disappearance of the genuine independent is that for about a decade now it has no longer been possible for a producer to borrow his needed capital by merely giving a first lien on his completed picture to the lender, generally a bank. The post-war slump threw so many pictures into the laps of the banks that they decided henceforth to lend money only on hard collateral.

This inability of the independent to raise money by putting up his print as collateral combined with several other factors to bring about the development of what might be termed the semi-independent of today.

Important among these factors was a tendency toward decentralization of production control at the major film plants, due largely to reluctance of executives to assume the man-killing burden of day-to-day supervision of all production activity at a large film plant. Executives generally began to work out deals which not only called for them to produce one, two or occasionally three or four films a year but also permitted them to benefit tax-wise by getting their renumeration in the form of profits instead of straight salary.

The tax situation is, as a matter of fact, the main factor in the burgeoning of the various forms of production deals which today are all loosely described as independent production, for it was not only the experienced producers who wanted to have the proceeds of their labors in some other form than direct salary—the same desire spread to actors, directors and even some writers.

The result is a great variety of so-called independent deals. Some amount merely to arrangements for producer, actor, director or writer to be included nominally in a corporate setup but actually only for the purpose of receiving a participation of profits. Other deals give the members of the producing corporation, especially when they are actually producers, varying degrees of autonomy. In all these cases, the money for production is put up by either a distribution firm like United Artists or by one of the major studios, which will also distribute the picture.

Probably the most autonomy is granted to the several noted production organizations listed above as being financed by United Artists. Since this company does not have either a film plant or production executives of its own, the producers whom it subsidizes are left pretty much on their own, but their activities can be circumscribed by limitations put on budgets for individual productions. Even at this company, however, there is no standard deal for all its producers. Details are subject to bargaining at the time the deals are made, with the result that some producers are subject to more supervision than others.

The most striking change in the production picture in recent years involves the major studios, which have always been both manufacturers and distributors. The situation today is that at every one of these big plants, with the possible exception of Warner Bros., the majority of pictures on their programs are being produced by subsidiary producing entities which the studios are financing. The subsidiary may be built around an actor or director but is most likely to be headed by a producer who used to be under salary as an associate producer at the same studio or some other.

The degree of autonomy these "independents" enjoy is generally less than is granted those making pictures for U.A. At the major film plants they are not only charged with a percentage of the studio overhead but they must also avail themselves, whether they wish to or not, of the services of the studio personnel in all technical aspects of picture making. And, aside from stars, they are often forced to let the studio cast the picture as it wishes, particularly if the studio has some young players under term contract.

On the whole, however, there is no set pattern as to the degree of autonomy these subsidiaries at the major film plants may exercise, for that factor is not even controlled by the terms of the contracts under which the producers operate. Whatever their contracts may say, for instance, it is a certainty that no one would attempt to exercise any supervision over, say, David O. Selznick or George Stevens, who are now producing under the aegis of 20th Century-Fox, or over John Ford, who was to produce "The Last Hurrah" early this year at Columbia.

As far as one can look into the future, this pattern of separate production units, with varying degrees of autonomy, financed by the major film companies, seems likely to be the manner in which the production business will be conducted in Hollywood for a long time to come. To describe these units as genuine independents, however, would get you an argument from that dean of the real independents, Sam Goldwyn.

CENSOR BOARDS

Addresses and Regulations

STATE CENSOR BOARDS AND RULES

Kansas

State Board of Review, Sixth and Armstrong Streets, Kansas City, Kansas; Mrs. Willard Cook, chairman; Mrs. Edna Bernice Stewart, Mrs. Margaret Gebhart.

The board "shall approve such films, reels, including subtitles, spoken dialogue, songs, other words or sounds, folders, posters and advertising matter which are moral and proper; and shall disapprove such as are cruel, obscene, indecent, or immoral, or such as tend to debase or corrupt morals."

In addition to the quotation from the statute, this board has adopted the following rules:

A. Pictures should be clean and wholesome and all features that tend to debase morals or influence the mind to improper conduct should be eliminated.

B. Ridicule of any religious sect or peculiar characteristics of any race of people will not be approved.

C. Evil suggestion in the dress of comedy characters will be eliminated.

D. Loose conduct between men and women will be eliminated, and whenever possible, barroom scenes and social drinking.

E. A display of nude human figures will be eliminated.

F. Crimes and criminal methods, such as give instruction in crime through suggestion, will be eliminated or abbreviated.

G. Prolonged and passionate love scenes, when suggestive of immorality will be eliminated.

Maryland

State Board of Motion Picture Censors, 212 N. Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Maryland; C. Morton Goldstein, chairman; Mrs. Maude B. Dorrance, vice-chairman; Walter S. Hingler, secretary.

No film to be licensed which is in the judgment of the board ". . . obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, sacrilegious or of such character that its exhibition would tend to corrupt morals or incite to crime."

Massachusetts

Sunday censorship of films, as practised by the Massachusetts Commission of Public Safety since 1908, was unanimously ruled unconstitutional and void as of July 6, 1955, by the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

New York

Board of Education, Motion Picture Division, 80 Center Street, New York, N. Y. Also: Albany, N. Y.; Louis Pesce, acting director.

No motion picture will be licensed or a permit granted for its exhibition within the State of New York, which may be classified or any part thereof, as obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman, sacrilegious, or which is of such a character that its exhibition would tend to corrupt morals or incite to crime."

Newsreels not subject to review.

Ohio

The Court of Appeals of Franklin County, O., declared the Ohio censorship statute illegal and unconstitutional on Jan. 5, 1955. Repeated efforts to pass a ney censorship bill in the Ohio Legislature have failed.

Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania Motion Picture Act of 1915 was declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court on March 13, 1956. Legislative effort to reestablish censorship have been defeated.

SUNDAY CLOSING REGULATIONS

Alabama

Legalized by local option. Sunday shows in Anniston, Ensley, Montgomery, Auburn, Demopolis, Dothan, Selma, Troy, Cullman, Jasper, Mobile, Tuscaloosa. Bill passed in 1937 legalizing Sunday shows in Jefferson County (Leeds, Tarrant, Birmingham). Sunday closing in Camden, Greenville, Linden, Livingston, York. Attorney General ruled in 1942. Sunday films not prohibited in towns less than 15,000. Sunday shows closed in Bessemer June 1945—opened by referendum vote Oct. 2, 1945.

Arizona

No state legislation.

Arkansas

Legislature of 1937 passed law legalizing Sunday shows by local option. 1939 legislature passed bill legalizing Sunday motion pictures.

California

No state legislation against Sunday amusements.

Colorado

Legalized by local option—law on statute books interpreted as prohibiting Sunday shows, passed in 1871, but some years ago case was appealed to Supreme Court of State and decision rendered that law did not prevent operation of motion picture theaters on Sunday. No towns forbid shows by local ordinance, although some of smaller towns do not have Sunday shows.

Connecticut

Local option throughout the state. Hartford and Danbury do not allow Sunday matinees, but theaters open at five p.m. State passed bill in 1937 permitting theaters to remain open Sunday night until 11 p.m. instead of 10:30, and in 1945 further liberalized law permitting opening at 1 p.m. instead of 2 p.m. and closing at 11:30 p.m.

Delaware

Legislature defeated bill in 1937 for statewide Sunday films instead of local option. 1941—Repealed Blue Laws—provides local option for Sunday movies between noon and 6 p.m. and from 8 p.m. until midnight on Sunday. Newark, by referendum 6-10-42, banned Sunday pictures.

District of Columbia

Theaters open on Sunday.

Florida

Legalized by local option. All large towns have Sunday shows. Key West in December, 1946 enforced a 1913 ordinance calling for Sunday opening after six p.m. and requiring theaters to pay 20 per cent of net proceeds to local charity.

Georgia

Does not permit motion pictures on Sunday. In spite of blue laws, however, Atlanta, Albany, Columbus, and Thomasville do show pictures. Savannah permits Sunday shows between 2 and 6 and after 9:30 p.m. Proceeds to charity; Marietta—Theaters open on Sunday from 1 to 7 p.m. and again at 8:45 p.m. to serve war plant workers and service men. Winder City council approved Sunday shows April, 1946 under agreement that half of receipts be given city for operation of schools Blackshear permitted American Legion to show Sunday pictures but city council rescinded ordinance.

Idaho

State law prohibits Sunday shows, but upon signed petition of the majority of voters, presented to City Council, question is submitted to voters of community and popular vote governs action of council. Practically every sizeable town in state operates on Sunday.

Illinois

No state law legalizing or making illegal showing of pictures on Sunday. This is controlled by municipalities. No Sunday shows in Sparta and Waverly.

Indiana

Not legalized, but Sunday motion pictures are shown in every principal city in State. No Sunday shows in Oakland City.

Iowa

Legalized by local option.

Kansas

Has Sunday labor laws which include motion pictures for Sunday showing. Law has never been enforced and all towns operate except White Cloud, Smith Center, Lindsborg, Scott City, Clifton, Baldwin, Greenleaf, Lincoln, Jetmore, Spearville, Oskaloosa.

Kentucky

Bill legalizing Sunday performances passed 1934 State Court of Appeals in 1942 declared Sunday movies permitted by state law and no municipality can prohibit them.

Louisiana

Legalized by local option.

Maine

1939 law permits Sunday movies between 3 and 11 p.m. 1941—Legislature passed local option referendum exercised at regular elections—effective July 26, 1941.

Maryland

Legislature in 1931 enacted law providing referendum for city of Baltimore which was voted on and passed. Theaters open in following counties: Baltimore, Carroll, Montgomery, Prince George, St. Mary's, Howard, Oakland, and Anne Arundel. Incorporated towns in Allegheny County may have Sunday showings provided that they obtain permit from municipal authorities. 1943 legislature passed laws permitting Sunday shows in Aberdeen and Frederick City during certain hours, and in Washington County between 1 and 7 p.m. Cecil County by vote of 1945 Legislature may have Sunday shows by local option from 2 to 11 p.m. Other counties have not passed laws permitting Sunday shows.

Massachusetts

Legalized for Sunday showing. A large number of cities and towns are forbidden showings on Sundays.

Michigan

Has old blue law statute prohibiting showing of pictures on Sunday but statute is not enforced. Holland is only city which has Sunday closing law by city ordinance.

Minnesota

Sunday closing law of 1905 amended 1909 legalizing outdoor sports. In a decision of 1910 motion pictures classed same as sports and allowed to operate on Sundays.

Mississippi

The State Supreme Court of Mississippi ruled (during the week of June 18, 1956) that all motion picture theatres throughout the state can show films on Sundays between 1 and 6 p.m. and from 9 p.m .to midnight.

Missouri

Have Sunday labor laws which include motion pictures for Sunday showing. Law was never enforced and all towns operate except Marshall, Fairfax, Fulton.

Montana

No state statute prohibiting showing of motion pictures on Sunday and no law legalizing such showing, but all towns run shows on Sunday.

Nebraska

Legalized by local option. Sunday shows forbidden in Stromsberg. Town council opened Arnold for Sunday shows Jan. 18, 1937. Beatrice voted for Sunday pictures April 3, 1940.

Nevada

No state legislation against Sunday amusements

New Hampshire

State passed Sunday sports and entertainment bill in 1931 and individual cities and towns vote on it. 1943 legislature passed law permitting theaters to open Sunday afternoons at 1 p.m. by local option, instead of 6 p.m.

New Jersey

Blue laws repealed in 1933. Towns which have local ordinance prohibiting Sunday shows: Belvedere, Blairstown, Frenchtown, Highbridge, Jamesburg, Metuchen, Ocean Grove, Peapack, Ridgewood, Upper Montclair, Westfield, Nov. 8, 1938—Montclair by referendum vote made Sunday movies legal. State removed ban on Sunday shows in Princeton to provide recreation for men in Army and Navy training camps.

New Mexico

Bill passed 1931 legislature legalizing Sunday showings and prohibiting local option measures from closing theaters

New York

Home rule law by which towns and cities are legalized to show motion pictures on Sunday after 2 p.m., provided local ordinance is enacted to this effect by local legislative body and ratified by direct vote of people at special election. Under this law leading towns and cities show pictures on Sunday.

North Carolina

Not legalized. State law, city ordinances and public opinion opposed to Sunday pictures. The following towns do have Sunday shows Asheville, Benson, Chapel Hill, Dunn, Durham, Elizabeth City, Henderson, High Point, Louisburg, Plymouth, Raleigh, Robersonville, Scotland Neck, Tarboro, Williamston. Sunday films legalized for Cherokee County in 1937. Numerous towns have Sunday shows and a per cent of the proceeds is given to charity. 1939—Sunday closing law repealed in Johnston and Hyde counties. Law also passed 1939 prohibiting Sunday shows in Yadkin county and Sunday movies in Northampton between 1 and 6 p.m. City Council of Sanford approved Sunday closing in 1940. Sunday movies permitted in Charlotte and Salisbury in 1941.

The Gastonia City Council voted to permit the city's motion picture theaters to open for business on Sunday (Sept. 6, 1955.)

Mount Airy, N. C.—Sunday motion pictures have been authorized by the City Commissioners after Nov. 1, 1955.

Forest City, N. C.—Sunday films approved by the Mayor, Oct. 29, 1957.

North Dakota

Sunday shows legalized by referendum in 1933.

Ohio

Legalized showing on Sunday. Forbidden in Bayesville and Cambridge. On June 18, 1940 Supreme Court of Ohio upheld rights of municipalities to forbid Sunday shows. Wellsville resumed Sunday pictures September, 1946 after being closed since 1914.

Oklahoma

Legalized by local option.

Oregon

Legalized by local option to run shows on Sunday. No closed situation known.

Pennsylvania

Sunday opening law passed in 1935. Legalized by local option. 1941 legislature changed law providing referendum be held every 4 years instead of 5 on request of 20 per cent of highest vote cast for any candidate (old law 5 per cent).

November, 1945 general election opened 15 municipalities to Sunday shows out of 31 voting on question.

November, 1947 general election opened Sunday films in Harrisburg, Altoona, Baden, Bensalem Township, Blakely, Cheswick, Clarion, Columbia, Harrison Township, Jermyn, Jutztown, Laceyville, Lehighton, Marietta, McDonald, Nazareth, Perryville, Phoenixville, Rochester, Tarentum, Tinoesta, Wampum, Wind Gap and York, among others. Proposal was defeated in some 26 towns. November, 1949, general election opened many more places to Sunday films.

November 6, 1951, election legalized Sunday showings in: Butler, Bellevue, Brighton Township, Bedford Township, Butler Township, Summit Township, Osceola Mills, Wayne Township Washington Township, Neshannock Township, Greenville, Franklin Township, Oxford Township, Kennett Square, Scot Township, Loyalsock Township, Montgomery, Hamilton Township, Norristown, Lehigh Township, Shamokin, Mount Carmel Township, Schickshinny, Bangor Township, Palmyra Township, Westfall Township, Berwick, Birmingham, Springfield Township.

The following communities retained the ban: Rural Valley, Everett, Antis Township, Fairview Township, South Fork, State College, College Township, East Brady, Bradford Township, Greene Township, Somerset, Lewisburg, Claysvile, Philipsburg, Mercer, Middletown, Lansdale, Danville, Northumberland, Milton, Schuylkill Haven, Selinsgrove.

November 8, 1955, election legalized Sunday showings in: North Versailles, Franklin (Alleghany Co.), Chippewa, North Sewickley, Hopewell, Franklin (Beaver Co.), Antis Township, Falls, State College, Philipsburg, College Township, Union, Hughesville, Sandy Lake, Danville, Upper Merion, Northumberland, Milton, Somerset, Selingsgrove, Jackson.

The following communities retained the ban: Camp Hill Lemoyne, Penn, Middletown, Paxtang, Halifax, Landsdowne, Antrim, Greene, Mercerburg, Greencastle, Everett, Tyrone, Middleburg, Lewisburg.

November 5, 1957, election legalized Sunday showings in: Gratz, Fermanaugh Township, Mount Wold Township, Kelly Township, Upper Macungie Township, North Whitehall Township, Carlisle, Jersey Shore, South Heidelberg Township, Hanover.

Rhode Island

Legalized by local option. 1943 legislature passed law permitting theaters in Providence and several other communities to open at 1 p.m. instead of 2 on Sunday.

South Carolina

Legislature in 1947 passed bill permitting Sunday films after two p.m., except between seven and nine p.m., in cities of 62,000 or more population.

South Dakota

Has state law prohibiting Sunday pictures. Local option has over-ruled this law, however, and pictures are shown on Sunday in all principal towns.

A bill to repeal South Dakota's "blue laws" banning movies and other forms of entertainment on Sundays was passed by the House of Representatives. The vote was 50-22. (Feb. 1955)

Tennessee

Governor signed bill repealing blue laws in 1935 permitting Sunday opening by local option. However, not many operate.

Theaters in Maryville, Tenn., have started operating on Sunday. (Dec. 1951.)

Texas

Governor signed bill legalizing Sunday pictures which became effective in 1931, subject to local option. Prior to passage of law, majority of principal towns were open. Most towns now have Sunday shows.

Utah

No law preventing showing of pictures on Sundays. Former state statute made it illegal to operate a theater on Sunday, but this statute was repealed in 1925. Local option bill was subsequently introduced, but failed to pass.

Vermont

Law permitting Sunday movies after 6 p.m. passed in 1939. 1941 legislature eliminated necessity for voting every year on Sunday amusements, except on petition of 5 per cent of voters.

Virginia

Motion pictures are exhibited on Sunday in Richmond, Norfolk, and various other Virginia cities usually after juries and test cases have failed to convict the exhibitor. In Williams v. Commonwealth 179 Va. 741, decided in 1942, the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia approved the operation of Sunday movies where the proceeds were devoted to charity and three members of the Court, in a concurring opinion, held that the defendant was engaged in a "work of necessity," within the meaning of the Virginia Sunday Observance Law. The effect of this concurring opinion has been far reaching in discouraging prosecutions for the exhibition of motion pictures on Sunday.

Washington

Sunday opening not legalized except in Colfax where old statute providing Sunday closing was attempted to be enforced, but was defeated. Theaters close in Pullman on Sunday evenings as result of friendly arrangement with people of Normal School of Pullman. Theaters throughout state operate without interference. There are no Sunday closing ordinances.

West Virginia

Not legalized, but all principal cities show pictures on Sunday which include Charleston, Bluefield, Huntington, Williamson (theaters in last city open after closing of church in morning and close prior to evening service). Forbidden by local ordinance in Lewisburg, Milton, and Ronceverte.

Wisconsin

Blue laws repealed in 1933.

Wyoming

No state law concerning motion pictures.

INDUSTRY LITIGATION

Some 1957 Cases of Interest to the Motion Picture and Television Industries

Compiled and Digested by CHARLES D. SILVERBERG
Attorney, Hollywood, Calif.

THE FOLLOWING 1957 DECISIONS appeared to the writer to be of significance and interest to the motion picture and television industries. Legalistic treatment which might prove foreign to the layman has been begrudgingly sacrificed for simplicity, and accuracy of detail has given way to brevity due to space limitations. Case citations allow a closer scrutiny of the decsions where desired.

COPYRIGHT AND RELATED

INDEPENDENT FILM DISTRIBUTORS, LTD. v. CHESAPEAKE INDUSTRIES, INC., 148 F. Supp. 611 (S.D. N.Y. 1957)

Since 1923, New York State has given film laboratories a lien upon film processed by them, including a lien, in some cases, on the distribution and exhibition rights. Acting under this law Chesapeake secured a default judgment of foreclosure against an English company, Independent, which was not doing business in New York and could not be personally served there. After the foreclosure sale, Independent entered the federal court to challenge the jurisdiction of the state court and the validity of the film laboratory lien law.

The federal court said that even though the films were physically in New York, the copyright was in England where Independent had its domocile. There could be no lien upon the copyright in such a case unless there was personal service on the copyright owner or the copyright owner resided in New York. In an interesting footnote, the court went even further. The judge questioned whether the lien law could affect the copyright in any case, since the U.S. Copyright Act appears to require an instrument in writing signed by the copyright owner to create a mortgage in a copyright; the implication being that if a mortgage cannot be created without a writing signed by the copyright owner, a laboratory lien requires such a writing as well. Although the lien of Chesapeake on the physical film was unaffected by this decision, the result was that the lien became worthless without the right to exhibit the film.

CHANDLER v. ROACH, 156 A.C.A. 507 (1957)

In 1951 a professional writer, through his agent, disclosed an idea for a production of a filmed series based on the activities of a public defender's office to a television producer. He prepared a script at the producer's request. An agreement was drafted but never signed and two years passed during which nothing happened. The defendant then produced a series of television programs based upon the idea. When sued by the writer, the producer prevailed on a jury instruction to the effect that the writer could not win unless his idea, in addition to being concrete, was also novel.

The California District Court of Appeal, however, reversed the trial court and ordered a new trial. It said the writer could recover even if the idea was not novel, so long as a promise to pay was expressed or could be inferred from the circumstances. The court said "The assent of the producer (to pay) is manifested by his acceptance of the idea or material submitted under the circumstances, a part of which is that it is reasonably understood that a professional author expects payment of the reasonable value of the idea or material if used, so that the conduct of the producer in accepting it implies a promise to fulfill these reasonable expectations." Thus, even though no idea is copyrightable, and even though a particular idea may not be novel, a producer may agree to pay for its disclosure and use and be bound by his promise to do so.

MILLER v. NBC, US District Court, Delaware (26 US Law Week 2290)

NBC dramatized and presented a fictionalized version of the crime and apprehension of a Federal bank-robbery convict. The convict sued the network on the grounds of implied contract and an interference with his right to sell that phase of his life story. The court considered that both grounds had overtones of "invasion of privacy," despite the convict's insistence that he was not relying upon that right.

In denying recovery to the convict, the court stressed the "public interest" rule. On the contract issue, the court said that what the station used was part of the public domain. It had not used the convict's name, nor had it related intimate details of his life. The convict had not furnished, even implicitly, any consideration; any exchange. The court did point out, however, that it should not be understood as sanctioning wholesale exposure of an individual's intimate life merely because some part of his life has been opened up to public view.

BENNY V. LOEWS: CBS V. LOEWS, 239 F. 2d 532 (9th Cir. 1956; cert granted 1957)

In 1942 Loew's (MGM) purchased from the author the exclusive motion picture rights to "Gaslight," a copyrighted work, and produced a motion picture based on the story. In 1952 CBS produced a half-hour television burlesque of the picture with Jack Benny as the star without obtaining the consent of Loew's or the author.

Upon suit by Loew's, Benny and CBS took the position that the use made of the copyrighted material was a so-called "fair use," and that the copyright had not been infringed. The court analyzed the outlines of the original photoplay and the teleplay and concluded that there had been a substantial taking of Loews' material. The court rejected the argument that it was a "fair use" because it was a burlesque of the material. It said that if there is a susbtantial taking of another's copyrighted work, infringement exists no matter what the nature of the copy, burlesque or otherwise. The case has been argued to the United States Supreme Court, whose decision is pending at the date of this writing.

SUNSET SECURITIES CO. V. COWARD MCCANN, INC., 47 Cal. 2d 907, 306 P. 2d 777 (1957).

Coward-McCann, a book publisher, gave American International Pictures Corporation, a producer, motion picture rights in the novel "Prelude to Night" for the sum of $10,000. The agreement provided that the rights so granted were to "automatically revert" to the publisher unless the producer exercised an option to acquire the rights in perpetuity for an additional $25,000. The $25,000 was never paid. The producer defaulted on its bank loan. The bank foreclosed, and sold the picture to a subsidiary corporation.' The purchaser sued the publisher to clear its title so that it might freely distribute and exhibit the picture.

The question was, what reverted? The right to produce a motion picture based upon the novel? Or, the copyright in the picture plus the rights in the novel? The purchaser argued that the copyright in the film could not "revert" because it was not in existence at the time of the agreement. After a close reading of the agreement, the California Supreme Court held that the reversionary clause included "all rights derived from those conferred" in the granting clause and this included the copyright on the motion picture. The result was that despite the possession of the physical film gained through the foreclosure, the purchaser had no right to exhibit the picture.

WHITMAN V. WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS, 148 F. Supp. 37 (S.D. Cal. 1957)

The Walt Disney Studio, without having to become involved in the merits, succeeded in obtaining a dismissal of a patent infringement suit based on its use of a certain system of composite motion picture photography. The judge concluded that the inventor had slept on his rights, if any, for too long. The inventor knew in 1939 that Disney was using his process. He did sue in that year but brought the action in the wrong court. He sued again in the proper court, but did nothing to press the action, with the result that his action was dismissed three years later without prejudice to his right to bring it again. Ten years later, 1953, he sued for a third time. By this time his patent had almost expired. In early 1957, more than 17 years after he first sued, the case came to trial. In spite of excuses, the court held that because of his delay, because he had not even protested to Disney about his rights, and because Disney had invested millions of dollars' time, effort and capital in establishing its enterprises during this period, the suit would not be entertained, no matter how meritorious it might be.

DAHL V. COLUMBIA PICTURES CORP., 166 N.Y.S. 2d 708 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1957).

Arlene Dahl sued Columbia on the ground that, among other things, sketches used by that company in connection with the exploitation of a film in which she acted the part of a scheming, immoral woman were libelous and invaded her privacy under the New York Civil Rights Law.

On the question of libel, the Court pointed out that no right-thinking person would believe that Miss Dahl's character was the same as that of a part she portrayed. The sketches, though exaggerated by making the woman appear wild and sexually promiscuous, were based upon actual scenes of the picture, did bring out the main theme in exaggerated fashion, and "were within permissible limits of motion picture advertising standards," having been approved by the Motion Picture Association. Miss Dahl's privacy was not invaded since she had consented to the use of her name, photograph and likeness in connection with the advertising of the picture. The Court further stated, in another cause of action based on breach of contract, that the change of the picture's title did not violate a contract clause giving the actress the right of approval on "substantial changes or derivations from the original script." The original title was known to be tentative.

SZEKELY V. EAGLE-LION FILM CO., 242 F. 2d 266 (2d Cir. 1957); cert. denied, 354 U.S. 922, 1 L.ed 2d 1437, 77 S. Ct. 1382 (1957).

A screenplay was written for a producer based on a story to which the producer owned the motion picture rights. The producer agreed to pay the screen writer the sum of $35,000 plus 5 per cent of his profits. Under the agreement, the writer was to retain all his rights in the screenplay until, and as security for, payment of the $35,000. $10,000 was paid but due to financial difficulties the producer was unable to pay the balance. A motion picture was produced. The writer sued the distributor for infringement of his common law copyright. The writer was awarded a judgment and the distributor appealed.

The Court held that there was no merit in the claim that the writer was, himself, an infringer, since the producer for whom the screenplay was written had the right to dramatize the original story. The Court further held that there was a deliberate infringement. The distributor was apprised of plaintiff's claim several weeks prior to the start of distribution. As a result of the publication, the work of the writer became unsalable by him. The Court also held that the market value of the screenplay was, at the time of the conversion, at least $25,000, which was the amount sued for.

CENSORSHIP

EXCELSIOR PICTURES CORPORATION v. REGENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, 165 N.Y.S.2d 42, 3 N.Y.2d 237, 144 N.E.2d 31 (1957)

The Motion Picture Division of the New York State Department of Education refused to give a license for general exhibition of the motion picture "Garden of Eden," which was a fictionalized depiction of activities of a nudist group in a Florida camp. The Court held the picture not obscene, considering the traditional meaning of the word "obscene"; and concluded that the Board had misinterpreted its function by misguidedly reading the censorship law together with a certain section of the New York Penal Code which prohibits the exposure of the private parts in the presence of two or more persons of the opposite sex whose private parts are also exposed. The court insisted that since censorship can only be justified on the grounds of obscenity, that the Board must limit its inquiry to the question of obscenity. Furthermore, the court said that the penal statute does not make nudism, by itself, a crime. And even if it did, it cannot be said that representation of a criminal act (such as photographing and exhibiting it) is itself a crime.

ADAMS NEWARK THEATER COMPANY v. CITY OF NEWARK, 22 NJ 472, 126 A2d 340; stay denied, 353 US 955, 1 Led.2d 907, 77 S Ct 862; reh. denied, 2 Ler.2d 61 (1957)

The City of Newark passed an amendment to its obscene shows ordinance which placed certain specific conduct within the prohibited classification and which listed and detailed certain parts of the human body which could not be exposed, and to which attention could not be directed. The ordinances were challenged by theater operators as taxpayers on the grounds of violation of constitutional guarantees, since it provided for prior censorship of specific acts.

The Supreme Court pointed out that the city is faced with a dilemma. A broad ordinance brings charges of vagueness and a detailed ordinance brings charges of violation of freedom of speech. The court held that the amendments were a constitutional exercise of the police power; that government in a democracy is responsible for the protection of the morals of its people. The court attempted to eliminate the fears of the theater operators by saying that each individual case would be weighed as it arose, and that the ordinance was susceptible of reasonable judgment in its interpretation.

MARYLAND STATE BOARD OF MOTION PICTURE CENSORS v. TIMES FILM CORPORATION. 212 Md 454, 129 A2d 833 (1957)

A motion picture entitled NAKED AMAZON included scenes of natives of the Brazilian jungles without clothing, although there were no suggestive scenes and the intimate parts of the bodies were not visible. The State censorship board deleted from the picture all scenes showing bodies below the waist, after viewing each scene alone and considering whether the possible obscenity of each scene outweighed any of the merits of the same scene.

The Maryland Statute is of the "dominant effect" type. The Supreme Court of Maryland held that the film must be considered in its entirety. The board should have examined into the question of whether the obscenity of individual bits or scenes found objectionable outweighed the overall worth of the picture viewed in its entirety, and should have looked to the effect of the picture as a whole on the ordinary viewer, not merely on the irresponsible viewer.

A.C.L.U. et al v. CITY OF CHICAGO, et al, 13 Ill 2d 278, 141 NE 2d 56 (1957)

The motion picture "The Miracle" was banned from exhibition in Chicago under a municipal code provision prohibiting "immoral or obscene" films. The same film had originally been banned in New York as sacrilegious but the United States Supreme Court held there that this was not a valid ground for censorship under the Constitution. Here, the appellate court defined obscenity and prescribed a test of the "dominant effect on a normal, average person," sending the case back to the trial court for a finding on the issue of obscenity. The court then disagreed with the trial court's finding and doubted that "The Miracle" would arouse sexual desires in the average normal reader. The court warned that censorship should be approached wth caution, and ordered that the picture be given a permit for exhibition.

TIMES FILM CORPORATION v. CITY OF CHICAGO, 2 Led 2d 72 (1957) reversing 244 F. 2d 432 (7th Cir. 1956)

The Chicago Police denied an exhibition permit to the motion picture "The Game of Love" as an obscene film. After a series of appeals, the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirmed the trial court which held that the purpose of the film was to arouse sexual desires, that freedom of speech is not absolute, that the standard presented by the City Ordinance in question was not too vague, and that the denial of the permit in this case was not unconstitutional since the picture was obscene.

The Supreme Court of the United States reversed the Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court cited an earlier case in which, among other things, had pointed out that sex and obscenity are not synonymous, and that the portrayal of sex in artistic material is not itself sufficient reason to deny the material the constitutional protection of freedom of speech. ALBERTS v. CALIFORNIA, 354 U.S. 476, 1 Led 2d 1498, 77 S. Ct. 1304 (1957).

TAXATION

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE v. SCHAEFER, 240 F.2d 381 (2d Cir. 1957)

A taxpayer had been active in the motion picture industry for over 30 years, but had never ventured into motion picture production on his own. He formed a corporation to produce a feature motion picture. He served as its president without compensation and was the sole shareholder. He was required by lenders of the production financing to guarantee completion of the picture. The picture exceeded its budget. The taxpayer had to advance $53,000 for completion, taking notes from the corporation which were, by agreement, subordinated to the corporate indebtedness to the lenders. The notes were never paid. The taxpayer deducted the $53,000 from his personal income tax return as a loss due to a bad debt arising out of his business under (then) Section 23 (k) (1) of the 1939 Internal Revenue Code. (Now Section 166 of the 1954 Code.) A tax deficiency was assessed on the grounds that the deduction was improperly classed as a business bad debt loss.

The court said it was true that the loss on the guarantee was directly related to the business of the corporation but that it did not necessarily follow that the corporation's business was the taxpayer's business. The assumption of the guarantee and the lending of the advance for completion did not amount to a "trade or business" of the taxpayer any more than if the taxpayer had, without prior commitment, made a direct loan to the corporation or endorsed its note. The taxpayer argued that the advance on the guarantee was incidental to his business of furnishing services to the corporation but the court rejected this, in view of the fact that the taxpayer served the corporation without pay.

Also evident in the opinion was the feeling of the court that a person may not form a corporation and call it a separate entity for one purpose and identify himself with it for some other purpose.

GERSHWIN v. UNITED STATES, 153 F. Supp. 477 (Ct. Cl. 1957)

The estate of George Gershwin's mother succeeded in obtaining capital gain treatment on a $150,000 sale of Gershwin compositions to Twentieth-Century Fox, some 12 years after the transaction. Reservation had been made of certain rights in the compositions, including "small" performing rights, the right to use any two of the compositions in a contemplated motion picture biography of George and Ira Gershwin, the rights to all music and lyrics not used in "The Shocking Miss Pilgrim," and the right to receive additional compensation in the event of a remake of the picture or the use of the compositions in any other pictures. The Treasury Department argued that the transaction was actually a "license" and not a "sale," and that the revenues from the grant were therefore taxable as ordinary income instead of being entitled to the less onerous capital gain rates.

The Court held that the transaction did reflect a sale and not a license. The court said the distinction was that of giving up ownership to another, as opposed to retaining ownership and merely giving to the other party the use of the material for some limited purpose or time. The court also looked to the instrument of transfer and noticed that it bore the earmarks of a sale, such as the use of the word "forever," the fact that flat sums were cited, and it had a "sole and exclusive" clause. The court further stated that the reservation of certain rights was not inconsistent with a sale of the property.

THEATRES

COMMONWEALTH v. GROCHOWIAK, ... Pa. ....., 136 A2d 145 (1957)

A drive-in theatre manager was convicted of a violation of the Pennsylvania Sunday Motion Picture Act which forbids Sunday motion picture exhibitions in any areas voting against such exhibitions in "local option" elections. The theater manager challenged the constitutionality of the statute as violative of the guarantee of free speech. The court acknowledged that motion pictures are within the protection of the First Amendment to the Constitution, but considered the statute a lawful exercise of the police power of the state. The court affirmed the conviction imposed by the trial court, and said "the police power of the state may properly impinge upon one or more phases of the information-presenting mechanism, although it cannot constitutionally impinge upon or limit the content of that expression or impede the right to be heard."

JONES v. WEST END THEATRE COMPANY, 94 Ga. App. 299, 94 S.E.2d 135 (1956)

Plaintiff attended a drive-in theatre which was terraced with a series of parking ramps. Although the theatre area was only dimly lighted during the performance of the pictures, the area was brightly lighted by flood lights during an intermission so that patrons could visit the concession operated by the theater-owner in front of the screen. Plaintiff left his car, visited the concession, and made some purchases. While at the concession, the lights were again turned off and plaintiff attempted to make his way back up the ramps to his car. He tripped over an empty beer can in the dark, was injured in the fall and sued the theatre for negligence.

The court concluded that to require the theatre owner at all times to have immediate knowledge of, and remove, every article on which a patron might stumble would be to place too great a burden on him. This would make the theatre owner an insurer, which he is not.

K & F Theatres Company v. Bradley, 246 F2d 456 (10th Cir. 1957) (Reh. Denied)

A theatre lease provided that if the landlord ever desired to convert the theatre building for commercial purposes, tenant would surrender the building on 30 days' notice and buy the theatre equipment for a specified price of $10,000. The landlord gave notice of termination shortly before the expiration date of the lease. At the time of the notice, the theatre equipment was worth only about $500. The tenant surrendered the building upon notice, but refused to pay the $10,000. The landlord sued and the tenant appealed from an adverse judgment.

The appellate court decided that the termination clause of the lease gave a limited right to the lessor which could be exercised only in the event he determined in good faith to change the use of the premises to some other commercial purpose. The court concluded that the termination was not in good faith. No tenant was in prospect and no particular changes or improvements had been considered. Some 18 months after the termination of the lease, the landlord still did not know what he was going to do with the building and only minor alterations had been made. The termination appeared to be designed primarily to compel the lessee to pay $10,000 for theatre equipment having a reasonable value of only $500.00.

North Drive-in Theater Corporation v. Park-in Theaters, Inc., 248 F.2d 232 (10th Cir. 1957).

The owner of a drive-in theatre patent granted a license to a theatre owner covering any theatres which the latter might subsequently build within the geographical license territory. The theatre owner built several theatres and the patent owner sued for royalties under the license agreement.

The theatre owner argued that a court decision in another jurisdiction had invalidated the patent in question. The court held that a provision of the license agreement prevented consideration of that argument here. The licensee-theatre owner was deemed, under the agreement, to have waived his right to challenge the validity of the patent if he did not do so within a certain specified period of time after knowledge of such a court ruling. The Court did, however, hold in favor of the theatre owner on the merits, since the theatres constructed by him did not utilize the patent in question and were therefore not covered by the agreement.

ANTI-TRUST

Congress Building Corporation v. Loews, 246 F2d 587 (7th Cir. 1957)

A theatre lease provided for a fixed minimum rental plus a percentage of the lessee's gross receipts. The landlord brought a civil suit under the Clayton Act for treble damages and injuctive relief, claiming that although the fixed rentals had always been paid, the receipts of the theatre and thus the amounts payable by the tenant under the percentage clause, had been kept down by reason of the illegal trade practices of the tenant and others, why, he charged, were engaged in a conspiracy to monopolize first and first subsequent run exhibition of motion pictures, thereby relegating the landlord's theatre to an inferior exhibiting position.

The tenant took the position that the landlord was not a person injured in its business or property within the meaning of the Clayton Act. The court stated that the landlord should have its treble damage remedy if, in fact, the anti-trust violation had decreased its receipts in some ascertainable amount, and the fact that the operation of the theatre was entrusted to the discretion of the tenant would not deprive the landlord of the right to rely on remedies provided by the anti-trust laws.

The court also considered and rejected the tenant's argument that a demand for earlier runs for its theater should have been made by plaintiff as a prerequisite to bringing the law suit.

Eagle-Lion Studios v. Loew's Inc., 248 F.2d 438 (1957)

Eagle-Lion brought suit for $15,000,000 treble damages against Loews and RKO under the Sherman and Clayton Acts for alleged discrimination against them in the latter's New York Metropolitan Area first subsequent run theatres. Proof was made of great financial losses suffered both in production and distribution during the years of the alleged violations. Defendants answered that there had been no discrimination in booking, and that the Eagle-Lion pictures lost money simply because they were of a "low artistic and box-office appeal."

The trial court ruled in 1956 that plaintiffs had shown no direct proof of conspiracy to deprive them of a competitive licensing opportunity, despite the fact that they had several years in which to gather evidence. A majority of the members of the Court of Appeals agreed. The United States Supreme Court has agreed to hear the case.

The crucial issue is whether the findings of fact in the Federal Court decree in the Paramount case of 1956 may be used as prima facie evidence of the conspiracy charged in this suit by Eagle-Lion. The trial and appellate courts ruled that the findings of the Paramount case could not be used because different issues were raised here. The late Judge Jerome Frank, as well as Chief Judge Clark who dissented, disagreed.

MISCELLANEOUS

Television — Libel

GEARHART v. WSAZ, INC., 150 Supp. 98 (E.D. Ky. 1957)

A County Attorney sued in a Federal District Court in Kentucky for allegedly libelous newscasts by a West Virginia television station, which ascribed certain dishonest and improper actions to the plaintiff in his public and professional capacity.

The court held that there was jurisdiction in Kentucky even though less than 4 per cent of the station's total advertising revenue represented sales to Kentucky persons or firms. The court also stated that freedom to gather and broadcast news does not give a license to defame character. The program was repeated several times and, in addition, the court appeared to question the efforts made by the defendant station to corroborate or verify the statements made against plaintiff. The court held that defamation by television is libel, rather than slander, and that libel was present and actionable here, without proof of special damages.

Employment Contracts — Morals Clause

SCOTT v. RKO RADIO PICTURES, INC., 240 F.2d 87 (9th Cir. 1957), rehearing denied; cert. denied 353 US 939, 1 Led.2d 761, 77 S. Ct. 816 (1957).

RKO discharged the plaintiff, a former screen director, after his participation as a witness in hearings before the Committee on Un-American Activities of the United States House of Representatives. At the time of the discharge, plaintiff had been working under an unexpired written contract. Plaintiff was indicted and convicted for refusal to answer certain questions of the Committee and sentenced to a year in jail. RKO sent a notice of discharge, citing a breach of the "morals" clause of the employment agreement. The Court of Appeals analyzed the clause and the circumstances and concluded, with express reference to an earlier case, that the discharge was justifiable and for good cause. The court held that the director's conduct violated many elements of the morals clause.

Television — FCC

WRATHER-ALVAREZ BROADCASTING, INC. v. FCC. (AB-PARAMOUNT THEATERS, INC., INTERVENOR) 248 F.2d 646 (D.C. 1957)

The ABC Network applied to the FCC for authority to supply its programs to a Tiajuana, Mexico, television station which transmitted a city-grade signal to San Diego. The network wanted to obtain greater San Diego coverage in order to compete more favorably with the other two major networks which had San Diego television stations. The Commissioner ruled that the public interest would be served by giving a greater degree of multiple choice in live network programs, and by stimulating network competition and he granted the application.

On appeal the court held that although the Commissioner would admittedly not have jurisdiction over the programming of the station, he should have looked into what possible defects might exist in the programming policy of the foreign station as might adversely affect the public interest before granting the permit.

Workman's Compensation — Religious Exemption

C. O. BAPTISTA FILMS v. CUMMINS, 9 Ill. 2d 259, 137 N.E.2d (1957)

A corporation rented and sold religious films and motion picture projection equipment to religious groups at a substantial profit. The corporation sought an exemption under the Illinois Unemployment Compensation Act as a "corporation oragnized and operated exclusively for religious or educational purposes with private beneficial investment." The court held that the corporation did not meet the requirements for an exemption, citing, among other considerations, the non-religious structure of the company, the fact that none of the principals of the company were connected with any religious group, the fact that the company was controlled by one individual who could dispose of the earnings in any way he saw fit and the fact that much of the income was from sources other than those with direct religious connotations, such as the rental of equipment which could be used for non-religious purposes. The court followed an earlier but recent case in making its decision.

The Pulse of the Motion Picture Industry

Theatre remodeling and renovation is experiencing a spurt in almost every section of the country. In the last three months of 1956, it ran 104 per cent above the same period a year ago. Shown here is the updated foyer of the Broadway Theatre in Portland, Ore., on which J. J. Parker Theatres has spent well over $100,000 for remodeling and Todd-AO equipment. The wrought iron ornamentation was an added touch . . . . The Modern Theatre section this issue features Theatre Construction and Renovation.

A film trade magazine's leadership is gauged by concrete and measurable criteria:

CIRCULATION

BOXOFFICE has 20,732 net paid subscribers—77.9% more in the U. S. and Canada than the No. 2 film trade paper.

ADVERTISING VOLUME

In 1957 BOXOFFICE carried over 100 pages MORE national advertising than the No. 2 paper.

DURATION OF LEADERSHIP

BOXOFFICE has been the leader in circulation and readership among motion picture trade papers since 1940.

Such concrete data have their foundation in an editorial policy which gives small exhibitors as well as circuit executives top coverage of news, locally and nationally, and practical service features dealing with all phases of theatre operations.

BOXOFFICE

read and relied on by more theatremen than any other film trade journal in the world.

Since 1907

KINEMATOGRAPH WEEKLY has been recognized as the most reliable and best-informed journal of the British Film Trade. It has been so for fifty years.

From week to week, it covers all aspects and activities of the trade and is the only journal giving complete coverage of the British Film Industry.

The certified net weekly sale of 5,637 copies indicates a concentrated circulation among Exhibitors, Distributors, Producers and Technicians.

NOW IN ITS FIFTY-FIRST YEAR

Complete coverage of the Film Industry in Britain

half a century

KINEMATOGRAPH WEEKLY not only covers all the film trade news and events, it caters specifically for the interests of technical men in all departments by regularly published features:

STUDIO DIVISION gives the news of British production, every week.

SHOWMANSHIP is a weekly section for the Kinema Manager, dealing with Showmanship, Management, People.

BRITISH STUDIO REVIEW is a survey of all British film production and technical developments and is published every other month.

KINE SALES AND CATERING REVIEW is published six times a year and covers all aspects of refreshment sales and kinema catering services.

THE IDEAL KINEMA is the monthly architectural and technical guide to the latest activities in Kinema design, decoration, theatre equipment and projection practice.

IN 1776, fifty-six Americans risked the gallows by signing a declaration that was printed and dispatched throughout the nation they had created with their penstrokes. When a man sets his signature to a document, it is his personal bond. When an advertiser sets his name to a printed message he stands directly behind it. That is why people have confidence in printed advertising. It is also the reason why an advertiser carefully selects the publication media he desires to reflect the integrity of his name and his product.

When you come home tired, and want to watch TV...

it's the getting up ...that gets you down

Now...tune TV from your easy chair with "Silent Sound"!

ZENITH

original and exclusive

SPACE COMMAND

REMOTE CONTROL TELEVISION TUNING

JUST TOUCH A BUTTON ON THE UNIT IN YOUR HAND

AND SEND THROUGH SPACE YOUR SILENT COMMAND

This "electronic ear" hears your silent command from across the room. And, magically, your set does exactly what you've told it to do.

THIS BUTTON TELLS YOUR SET TO TURN ON, OR OFF

THIS BUTTON TELLS YOUR SET TO SWITCH CHANNELS TO THE LEFT

THIS BUTTON TELLS YOUR SET TO SWITCH CHANNELS TO THE RIGHT

THIS BUTTON TELLS YOUR SET TO SHUT OFF THE SOUND OF LONG, ANNOYING COMMERCIALS WHILE THE PICTURE STAYS ON

With Zenith Space Command, you can shop all the shows, switch back and forth between programs, "de-voice" a long-winded announcer . . . right from your easy chair. No need to get up even to fuss with fine-tuning. On a Zenith, each channel comes in precision-tuned automatically . . . brighter, more sparkling, with Zenith's new "Sunshine" Picture Tube. Space Command is not an extra cost accessory, it's built right into the set.

ZENITH®

The quality goes in before the Zenith name goes on.

Backed by 39 years of leadership in radionics exclusively. Also makers of Radio, High Fidelity Instruments and fine Hearing Aids.
